Department Will Have Two More Top Men Called Before House Investigators

By HARRY P. SNYDER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is in line during the coming week for more probing at the hands of House investigators, with two former top men on call to answer questions at a public hearing.

J. Howard McGrath, ousted last spring from his cabinet post as attorney general, is booked to testify before a Judiciary subcommittee on Wednesday.

And one of his trusted aides, T. Lamar Caudle, who was fired by President Truman last November for "outside activities," gets the spotlight on Thursday, assuming McGrath finishes in one day.

Keating On Secret Trip

The ranking Republican member of the House Judiciary subcommittee, meanwhile, made a quick visit amid much secrecy to an unnamed eastern city.

Rep. Keating (R-NY) declined to say anything about the trip except that it was (1) to a city "in the general direction of New York" and (2) to interview a key witness in a case previously untouched by the House investigators.

Keating and Daniel G. Kennedy, a subcommittee counsel, made the trip by train. On the way to the station from the senate office building, they talked with a man keating described as "another witness."

"We're so busy that we have to make appointments on the way to the train," Keating told a reporter.

Plan KC Vote Probe

In addition to these developments another subcommittee member, Rep. Bakewell (R-Mo), planned to examine department files on a 1946 Kansas City vote fraud case.

The committee got Attorney General McGranery's permission for Bakewell and Counsel Robert A. Collier to dig into the department's records concerning the Kansas City investigation.

Bakewell wants to know if any higher-up interfered with an FBI investigation of the theft of evidence in the 1946 Missouri Democratic primary. That was when Enos Axtell, with Truman's support, won over Rep. Slaughter in a congressional nomination race. Axtell was not elected.

McGrath Will Speak

McGrath will get a chance to tell what he recalls about the 1951 St. Louis grand jury investigation of tax scandals.

The committee has heard testimony that a grand jury submitted "a whitewash" of tax case handling in St. Louis while McGrath was top man.

District Judge George H. Moore has said he was convinced Ellis N. Slack, then a tax division lawyer, had a hand in the incient. A subsequent grand jury probe resulted in indictments.

Slack—who on Friday was pulled back in the ranks after acting as head of the tax division since Caudle's dismissal — denied Judge Moore's accusation.

Plane Crash Lands Near Carteret, N. J.

CARTERET, N. J., (AP) — A plane with one of its two engines afire crash landed today in a swampy area near the New Jersey turnpike. Police said there apparently were no casualties.

The plane trailed smoke and flames over the crash-conscious industrial-residential area near Elizabeth, N. J., before it dropped near the American Oil Co. property.

First reports were that three persons were aboard the craft.

A Jersey Central Railroad dispatcher, Russell Herman, said a towerman near the scene reported that the fire in the engine seemed to have been extinguished quickly and did not spread to the rest of the plane.

The railroad men said several persons got out of the plane and walked around it.

An American Oil Co. Employe said the plane appeared to have made a good landing and was not cracked up.

He Goes to Jerusalem, Beyond Jordan, Where Joshua Attacked; Views Bible Lands From Mt. Tabor

JERUSALEM — I have now been in the old city of Jerusalem for a full week and I have found this second visit to Palestine every bit as interesting as my first. I came to this ancient "City of David" by car from Amman, beyond the Jordan River. I crossed that cavated ruins of old Jericho it was King Herod once had his sumptuous winter home, where Joshua attacked the Caananites, and also where Jesus met Zacheus the tax gatherer.

Jericho's altitude of nearly 1,000 feet below sea level makes it one of the hottest cities in the world. The day I climbed about the excavated ruins of old Jerico it was a cool 115 degrees in the shade and perhaps 20 degrees hotter in the sun. Her extreme heat has made Jericho through the centuries the home of a degenerate people. Although the city was once given to the famous queen of the Nile as a present, and although Herod the Great built lavishly here, still the immortality of Jericho is the connection she has with two or three simple incidents in the life of the Galilean.

The thing that most impresses the visitor to the Holy Land, outside the present political conditions, is the way history has piled up in this tiny area. I feel sure that never again in the story of the human race will so tiny a plot of land be the stage for so much significant history. From "Dan to Beersheba" — as a child that term denoted almost the ultimate in distances, as indeed it did also to the Palestinians of old. The distance is actually less than 150 miles.

Journeys Near Jerusalem

A few days ago I made once again that interesting journey thru the Judean hills south of Jerusalem. After a few minutes drive on the newly built Arab highway I stopped on a mountain top and photographed Jerusalem. Then without moving I turned and photographed the Dead Sea to the east and turning also to the east, and turning also to the southwest I photographed the city of Bethlehem.

Even more spectacular is the way history is telescoped for one from the summit of Mount Tabor in southern Galilee. Never was there a place that stirs so many memories in the minds of those in the Judo-Christian tradition as does this round mountain rising out of the Esdraelon valley. In your mind go with me up the side of this mountain. Perhaps first of all we remember that this is presumed to be the "Mountain of Transfiguration" to which Jesus took his chosen Disciples.

As one stands on top of the mountain and faces west there lies Mount Carmel where Elijah built his altar and tested the priests of Baal and there in the valley below is the River Kishon where Baal's prophets were executed. The name of the valley is Megiddo or the valley of Armageddon, chosen by writers of old as the spot where the "Battle of Armegeddon" would be fought and where God would vindicate once and for all the forces of righteousness. Since time immemorial that plain has been reddened with the blood of fighting armies.

Views Mt. Carmel

As you stand on Mount Tabor, to the south you can see far into Judea, almost to the hills that protect Jerusalem. To the east you look down into the Jordan valley and on far beyond into Gilead. Just beyond that hill there to the northeast lies the Sea of Galilee, the tiny stage for the great drama of Jesus' ministry. Turning north you look across the hills of Galilee to the Mountains of Lebanon and to Mount Hermon from whose icy summit the Jordan river originates. As you thus stand and glance a little to your left there lies the village of Nazareth only 5½ miles away. Directly west of you only a few miles away lies the vast expanse of the Mediterranean Sea.

Standing thus on Mount Tabor how history does seem to pile up and time become telescoped! Here on Tabor's slopes Deborah and Barak gathered their forces and charged Sisera (Judges 4:4). Up these slopes also charged Saladin, the Moslem conqueror, and swept the Crusaders from their fortress. And across the valley there lies Mount Gilboa, battlefield where Gideon defeated the Mideonites and where Saul and Jonathan died together. Even as we stand gazing down into the valley a camel caravan comes over the hill making its way toward the south. We are thus reminded that past this mountain have marched not only most of the armies of the ancient world but it has also been a sentry beside one of the great caravan routes of the centuries gone by. Here in Palestine almost every hill top or running stream has been the site for one or more of history's important events.

To Cross No Man's Land

In the course of my visit here I shall be traveling the length and breadth of this land both in Jordan and in Israel. When I leave the old city of Jerusalem I shall cross no-man's-land at the Mandelbaum Gate. Going through road blocks, barbed wire, and heavily armed sentries I shall pass from the old city of Jerusalem to the New City, from Jordan to Israel. One is thus reminded that history is still pling up in this land.

Allies Blast Targets Deep In N. Korea

SEOUL, Sunday, Sept. 14 (AP)—South Korean troops seared Chinese Communist soldiers out of their bunkers and tunnels with flame-throwers this morning but failed in their attempts to recapture Finger Ridge on Korea's Central front.

The two forces battled to no decision in pre-dawn darkness and the fight was still going on shortly before noon Sunday.

An Allied officer said the South Koreans reached the crest of Finger Ridge several times but couldn't hold it against the Chinese counter-attacks.

During the night twin-engined Allied bombers attacked a Red supply center near Pukhong, deep in North Korea on the east coast. Returning pilots reported 70 secondary explosions, indicating they had hit ammunition or fuel dumps.

B-29s Damage Lines

Farther south the B-29s bombed Communist supply lines and reported at least 95 Red vehicles destroyed.

The night flying bombers were keeping the pressure on the Reds after Allied warplanes plastered targets deep in North Korea Saturday—from the big Suiho power plant on the south bank of the Yalu to the forwarned city of Sohung, a large supply center.

American carrier-based planes struck at a troop concentration center at Hoeryong, a few miles south of the Yalu River boundary between Korea and Red Manchuria and 41 miles southwest of Soviet Siberia.

The navy reported eight of 30 buildings in the area were destroyed and the others damaged.

The U. S. Eighth Army said the new attacks on Capitol Hill were made by Chinese wearing white headbands. There was no ready explanation.

With Allied artillery lending thunderous support the South Koreans hurled back the Reds and killed an estimated 215 and wounded many more.

On Finger Ridge, other elements of the South Korean Capitol Division failed again to dislodge the Chinese from the crest. The division lost that ridge top shortly after it had recaptured Capitol Hill. The two heights are only a mile and a half apart.

Anna Mae McKee, a Hubbard student, had saved her money all summer, planning big on attending this year as a senior and on receiving her diploma next spring.

If the thief will return the money, Anna Mae will still not be too late to enroll and get her full credits in school.

Charles Newman Hurt In A Fall From A Train

Charles Newman, 36, of 1105 South Kentucky, was severely injured late Wednesday night when he fell from a train near Jefferson City, Mo., on which he was working as a brakeman.

Mrs. Newman and her son, Charles Jr., left for St. Louis Thursday morning.

Adlai Pleased In West

Returns to Illinois Headquarters Talking Of Great Harmony Among Democrats

ALBUQUERQUE, Sept. 13 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson returns to his campaign headquarters today "well pleased with the political situation in 10 western states and talking of great harmony among the Democrats.

The party's presidential nominee flies to Springfield, Ill., after a 7600-mile nine-day tour of the west in a bid for November votes.

As he set out for home, Stevenson issued this statement:

"I am delighted with my journey through 10 states. Everywhere the crowds exceeded my expectations and their warmth and friendliness even surprised the local political leaders.

Gives Many New Views

"This trip enabled me to set forth my views on a number of issues not previously covered, in accordance with my plan of expressing as clearly as I can my hopes and ideas about our future.

"It would be bold and foolish to express any conclusions as to the political destiny of these states in November.

"But I am well pleased with the political situation in each of these states. Everywhere I found the Democratc party unified and enthusiastic — more so, I was informed, in some cities than it has been for many years.

"And the development of independent support for Sen. Sparkman and myself in the major centers was perhaps the most reassuring circumstance of all."

Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama is Stevenson's vice presidential running mate.

Makes 12 Speeches

The Illinois governor's tour took him into Colorado, Minnesota, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Washington, California, Arizona, and New Mexico. He made 12 formal speeches, plus eight whistle stop talks on a one-day train swing through California's San Joaquin Valley.

Stevenson plans to remain in Springfield for a few days to clean up accumulated state business, then take off on a new campaign swing along the Atlantic Coast and into the New England area.

He will appear in New York Monday, Sept. 22 to address the American Federation of Labor convention.

On his western tour, Stevenson has been hammering away constantly at the idea that the Republicans are hopelessly split between followers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP presidential nominee, and those who backed Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the nomination.

Speaker Of GOP Split

In his speech in Albuquerque last night, Stevenson again talked of the Republican party being a "two-headed elephant."

Alluding to the conference which Eisenhower and Taft held in New York yesterday, Stevenson told his audience:

"The elephants put their two heads together for a peace treaty. They must have eaten crow."

Then Stevenson added that it looked as though Taft "lost the nomination but won the nominee." That apparently was a reference to Taft's statement saying that he found Eisenhower and himself in agreement on issues.

On his tour of the west, Stevenson set forth his views on such issues as foreign policy, farm policy, the corruption in government issue conseration and public power, and the Communist-in-government issue.

On foreign policy, he said the greatest danger the free world faces is a threat of Sovet conquest of Asia, and he urged a positive American program of aid to India and other countries of the Orient to prevent such conquest.

Only Need 1941 More Volunteers For Defense Here

After nearly two years of operation, the local Civilian Defense program has volunteers totaling 59, which include the director, H. O. Berry, two other Sedalia men, the MKT Ladies Safety Council and one man from Jefferson City.

Now, after numerous pleas for help in establishing a first rate program in Sedalia, Mr. Berry needs only 1,941 more volunteers until the machinery, which has been completed in many neighboring towns, can begin to roll in Sedalia.

Recently the new state director of the Civilian Defense Program in Missouri paid a visit to Sedalia. At that time the local program included Mr. Berry and the man from Jefferson City and the director pointed out that here, as in a few remaining towns in Missouri there was a need for volunteers for the program.

Openings in Civilian Defense are still available to local people who may help with this program by contacting H. O. Berry, telephone 4358.

Whistle Stop Talk By Ike Here Saturday

Carl Schrader, Pettis County Republican Chairman, has announced that plans have been made for a welcoming ceremony Saturday morning at 10 p.m., when Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Republican presidential candidate, will stop over in Sedalia on a cross state stumping tour.

The general will be received by the Kroencke Concert Band as his special train pulls into the station and as the general and his wife and party step out on the platform Mrs. (Mamie) Eisenhower will be presented with a bouquet of roses.

A portion of the track will be fen d off so that several of the members of the general's party may leave the train.

Mr. Schrader said that the fact that Eisenhower would speak in the 15 minute stop-over has been confirmed in a telephone conversation with some Eisenhower-for-President officials, but it was not disclosed what would be contained in the short address.

The speech in Sedalia will be one of several which the general will make while traveling from Kansas City to St. Louis.

Another Republican candidate for office, Sen. James P. Kem, will arrive in Sedalia Friday, September 26, to speak at an open meeting at 8 p.m. in the Assembly room of the Pettis County Courthouse.

Sen. Kem, who will arrive in Sedalia from Oceola, Mo., will have a dinner engagement at the Bothwell Hotel and later will speak to an audience at the Assembly room. The Pettis County Republican Committee invites anyone who cares to attend to hear the senator's speech and visit with him after the meeting.

SAFB Construction Work To Soon Be Intensified

Bids on future work at the Sedalia Air Force Base are to be opened soon according to the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, at Kansas City. Bids for the airmen's housing which was scheduled for Sept. 12, were postponed for approximately two weeks, while bids for the construction of the runways, taxiways and aprons of the field are to be opened October 14.

The rehabilitation and construction of the SAFB is being accomplished under the direction of the Kansas City District, Corps of Engineers, for the purpose of developing the base in condition to serve as a station under the Strategic Air Command. The SAC headquarters are located at the Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha, Neb.

Contracts Near Completion

Early contracts such as that for the railroad spur from the mainline of the Missouri Pacific, the rehabilitation of a number of barracks, warehouses, and some hangers have practically been completed.

One of the first, if not the first contract to be let was the spur railroad track to the base from the Missouri Pacific mainline. This project has been completed. The rehabilitation of a large number of the old barracks, several warehouse buildings and hangers are practically complete, the work should be finished by the coming week. Another contract for repairs and rehabilitation of a few buildings is about 60-percent complete.

Designs Are Modified

The contract for the runways, taxiways and aprons was postponed several weeks ago when the Air Force changed their design and construction of the project. The project plans have been completed and call for rigid and permanent pavement, including north-south runways, pouring approximately 220,000 square yards; 175,000 square yards for the taxiways; 250,000 square yards for overlay pavement; and 75,000 square yards for parking aprons.

In addition to the contracts for the airmen's housing, there will be others for supporting air facilities, consisting of squadron shops, headquarters, a fire station, bachelor officers' quarters, air police quarters, airbase group headquarters, maintenance and supply groups, roads and streets.

Bids To Be Advertised

Bids for the construction of the new and large hanger are scheduled to be advertised in October and work initiated in approximately ten days after the contract is let.

A query of the Corps of Engineers brought the information from Col. L. J. Lincoln, Kansas City District Engineer, that the Sedalia Air Force Base will be built. He indicated the uneasiness of the communities of the government not continuing with the SAFB is unfounded.

In accordance with an appropriation made by Congress a year ago, there will be an expenditure at the SAFB of more than $20,000,000.

It is anticipated there will be plenty of activity at the base on new construction within the next twenty to six days.

General Rallies Forces

Begins Tomorrow A Circuit-Riding Crusade for Peace Throughout Mid-West

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower rallied his forces behind him today for the beginning tomorrow of a circuit-riding "peace" crusade through the politically-vital Midwest.

Describing himself as only the spearhead of a movement for "honesty and integrity" in government, the Republican presidential nominee told volunteer supporters that a crusading spirit will go much further than political organization toward winning a victory in November.

"I believe in organization but I believe more in spirit and that is what I see here today," Eisenhower told about 250 members of Citizens for Eisenhower — Nixon, who had gathered from all sections of the country to plan a get-out-the-vote drive.

To 12 States In 12 Days

Preparing to depart tomorrow on a 12-day, 12-state train tour, Eisenhower cast himself in the role of a missionary taking the political gospel of peace and honesty in government to the people at wayside stops.

He will make 56 of these stops, besides mapor appearances in St. Paul, Minn., Des Moines, Ia., Omaha, Neb., Kansas City, Mo., St. Louis, Mo., Luoisville, Ky., Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland, O, Wheeling, W. Va., Baltimore, Md., and Richmond, Va.

Sedalia will be included on a "whistle stop" at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 20.

The GOP nominee told the volunteer workmen he is only the hymbol of a crusade aimed at restoring world peace and "honesty, integrity and decency" in government.

Observing that he sometimes wonders why he should "deserve such devotion, such commendation" as had been shown by the volunteer workers, Eisenhower added:

"If it is justified at all it is only because a name or an effort, a thought or maybe a grin has come to symbolize for each of us something that is bigegr than a person."

Shudders At Overstatement

He said that he sometimes shudders as he sees the Republican case overstated.

As a specific instance, he took the slogan of the volunteer organization that Eisenhower is "the man who will bring durable peace."

Instead of this, he said it ought to be "The man who will work for peace, who will work, who will pledge to you energy and devotion to that cause that could take me literally don to the bones of by fingers."

"But to bring peace is going to be a tremendous job for 155 million people for years to come—it is not going to be solved easily," he declared.

He said if the Republicans win in November they will have "the satisfaction that we have done something in a very great cause for humanity" but that they will "suddenly realize that we have just started."

"Winning an election is nothing," he said with emphasis. "What does it matter what name a president may bear? But it does make a great difference if people dedicated to a cause have the opportunity to pursue that cause through four years of organized government in the United States xxx."

Eisenhower's excursion into the midwest will be broken after his St. Paul appearance Tuesday to fly back to New York to address the American Federation of Labor (AFL) convention on Wednesday.

At that time his refreshed alliance with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio will be tested by what he says about the Taft-Hartley Act. Taft has offered in the Senate some revisions to the act but has said that its main features should stand.

Lincoln Area Farmers' Late Crops Good

By Mrs. Herbert Hansen

Trench silos are gaining popularity here this year and many farmers are constructing, or have already constructed, such projects. Estell Kinkead has three such silos and plans to build another one. They will be filled with a combination of corn and sargo.

Make sure you are a duly registered voter. If you have moved since the last election, or haven't voted previously, a trip to your Board of Elections will make you a qualified voter.

Keep informed. Read newspapers and magazines. Listen to discussions, speeches and debates. Study the candidates by looking up their past records. Then form your own opinions.

Consider it a moral obligation to vote on election day, and encourage all your friends to do likewise. If you don't use this precious privilege don't cry about poor government later.

Changes Proposed for Missouri Schools Brings New Basic Plan

Editor's Note—This is the first in a series of articles spelling out proposed changes in Missouri's public school system. The sweeping changes, to be recommended to the 1953 legislature, call for abandoning most of the present system and installing a budgeted system. A special commission worked two years on the plan.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 13 (AP) — A special survey commission urged today that Missouri throw away its patchwork public school system and set up instead a budgeted education program.

The study group, composed of Missouri citizens, education leaders and consultants, worked two years to find out what's wrong with Missouri schools and what should be done to "provide the kind of public schools our children should have and which we can well afford to provide for them."

Cost About Same

The commission figured the basic cost would be about $120,000,000 a year—in round figures the same as we are spending today.

But, members added, most school districts probably would try to do even better than the basic plan calls for. That probably would increase the total cost to an estimated $150,000,000 a year.

Above $120,000,000 it would be up to the voters in each district to decide whether to give the children an even better educational plant than the foundation plan calls for.

State to Pay Two-Thirds

Under the so-called foundation program, the state would foot about two-thirds of the bill and the local districts one-third. Programs calling for local efforts above the basic plan would be paid for by local taxpayers.

Commission members said that overall it might mean the state and the local districts would give Missouri children an improved educational system on a share and share basis.

Right off, the big question pops up as to why such a commission got into the thing in the first place. Taxpayers, who have to pick up the tab, have a right to know the answer to such a question.

Here it is:

Missouri Below Average

The commission was created by the State Board of Education a couple of years ago because it was evident a lot of things were needed to bring Missouri's educational plant up to, and possibly above, the average in the country.

Or, as the commission itself found, "while the present school program in Missouri has many good features there are some major weaknesses that should be corrected."

The 22-member commission was headed by former State Sen. M. C. Matthes of Hillsboro. It enlisted the aid of hundreds of citizens and educational experts. It sent subcommittees into all parts of the state. It studied and re-studied the reports of them all, decided what was wrong. Then it worked out the solutions, to be passed on to the legislature and the people. It reported:

Values Outweigh Costs

"The commission believes that if its recommendations are implemented the public school system of Missouri will be much better than it is at the present time and that the values derived will be far greater than the cost."

Later stories explaining the report will detail the shortcomings the commission found and the recommendations it will make to the legislature.

In general, the commission decided the only way to tackle the job was to scrap practically all of the laws governing public education and start from scratch with a new, interlocked batch of statutes.

It found that through the years, as Missouri's population grew and the demand for education rose, the state added a law here and a regulation there to meet the changes one at a time.

Mass of Present Laws

The result is a mass of laws that produce unfairness and inadequacy in a lot of ways. For instance, the commission said:

1. "Thousands of insufficiently qualified teachers. Half of the elementary teachers do not meet minimum professional qualifications. A good many high school teachers teach subjects in which they are not qualified.

"Our average teacher's salary is $500 to $600 per year below the salary of the average teacher in the nation . . . frequently high school graduates can go out and make higher salaries than their teachers . . . many teachers trained in Missouri colleges and universities go to other states to teach where higher salaries are paid" . . . poor districts can't hire all the teachers they need and are forced to employ poorly trained teachers at the money they can pay.

Teacher Problem Over Funds

Generally, the teacher problem arises from insufficient money.

2. Hundreds of obsolete or inadequate school buildings, plus too meager instructional equipment and supplies.

For the most part this also is a matter of money, plus poorly aligned districts, local tax inequities and insufficient authority to go into debt to build adequate plants.

3. "Inequities in local tax support." Some districts produce practically no school money on the local front but depend almost entirely on state aid to operate the schools.

That, of course, increases the local burden of other districts.

Many Inadequate Districts

4. "Many poorly organized districts." The commission said it found that under present school aid laws "a county can receive more reorganization building aid by forming several inadequate reorganized districts than by creating adequate districts" and "there has been a little tendency for us to let community pride, intercounty rivalries and county and district lines to get in our way."

But that's no way to assure a youngster a good education, the commission said.

It urged that reorganization of school districts be continued and speeded up to produce new districts which can meet all the other problems of education.

It noted that 40 years ago there were 10,000 Missouri public school districts, four years ago there were 8,400 and now there are 4,500. But "we still have many districts which cannot give the program the children ought to have" and "even some of the reorganized districts are too small."

Transportation Lacking

5. "Needed transportation often lacking." The commission said better districts will be more economical and the saving in operating costs will help defray the cost of better transportation.

6. "Inadequate and complicated finance structure." The commission said Missouri now aids school districts on the basis of 14 different funds. That results in confusion. Frequently it fosters local efforts to see how much of the bill can be foisted off on the state in one way or another.

Those are the major problems. The commision has set up a special committee to take to the legislature its plan or clearing away the debris and unfairness, substituting instead its foundation program. That program is designed to produce a "guaranteed level of education."

Later stories will explain the steps to be taken.

ARE YOU A PART OF THIS "WRITE-IN" CAMPAIGN?

Do you believe, like all other Christians that our Freedom, Dignity and Rights came from God and that the only purpose of Government is to protect these gifts of God?

Last Sunday I tried to give you some idea of why most people capable of holding public office will not enter a political campaign. If you remember we pointed out that most capable men are employed in a responsible job that demands most of their energy and they have no will to go out each evening asking voters for an opportunity to serve them. This is adding another burden to a tired back.

Another thing is a capable man that runs for office intends to work when he gets in office and when you are tired you do not look forward to the added burdens that holding public office will bring

How would you like to do this: Go to several of your neighbors after you come home from work, tell them that you are honest, you are able to do a good job at your particular occupation and consequently consider yourself capable and intelligent, tell them you are kind to old people and little children and blow your own horn in general and ask them to vote for you. I feel sure that if you are not needing bread and butter that this will become very distasteful, and it would be ever so much better if someone else did your bragging—

Keep in mind while you are tooting your own horn that you must convince these folks that the weeds are so high in their garden that their kids are playing cops and robbers among the corn and tomatoes and it is doubtful that their garden is going to bear fruit.

You are offering for the small fee of ten cents an hour to try and stamp out the weeds and save the fruit so the kids will have chili sauce to put in their succotash when winter comes instead of having to play cop and robber on an empty stomach in a weed patch.

Being bashful about asking for votes was a big factor in my not getting enough votes to win in the primary. Since I am sincere in the desire to represent the people of Pettis County honestly, and since I can show a more capable record than any other candidate, I am putting aside this pride and asking You to not only write my name on the ballot in November but to get ten others to do so. It's your garden as well as mine.

You will be shown how to write in a Candidate's name. This does not void your ballot, it is legal and it is not much trouble. Someone interested in good government will see that you get a pencil.

Incidentally, I am amazed at the help I am getting. There are already more votes promised than I polled in the Primary. If you are interested in "Responsible Representation" jump in and help by asking your friends to read this ad and watch for "Instructions to Voters" and the "Power of One Vote." In the meantime line up ten votes for November.

Sincerely Yours,
Daniel G. Drew

Here are the STRAIGHT SOLID FACTS that lead thousands to better truck buys!

Veterans of the trucking business buy on cold, hard facts. They buy for good, solid, levelheaded reasons. And more and more of them buy Chevrolet trucks. As a matter of fact, they buy more Chevrolet trucks than any other make.

They cost less to buy, own, and operate. And Chevrolet's dependable valve-in-head engines hold fuel costs down, but deliver all the power you need when you need it.

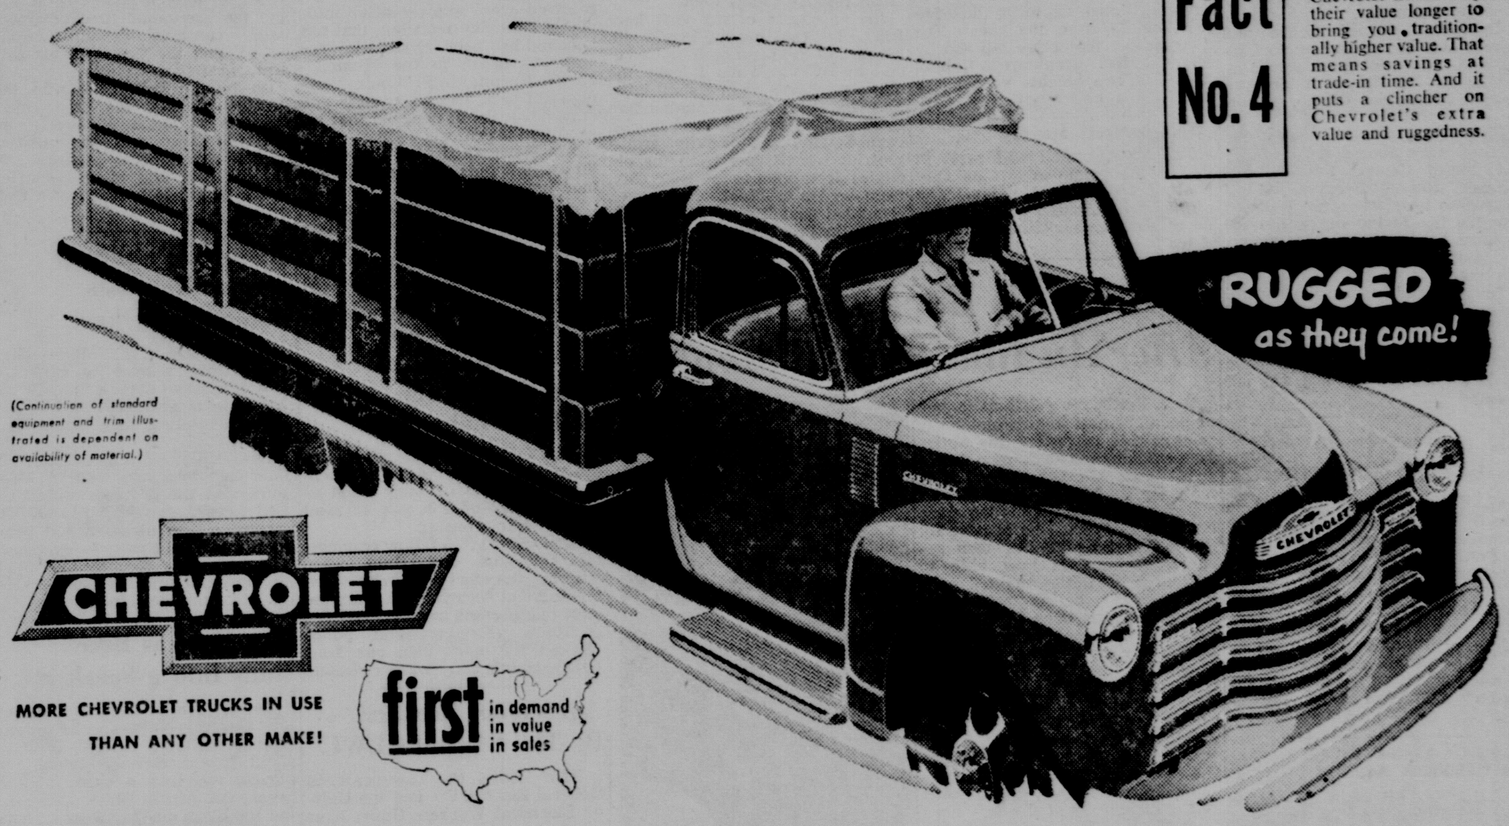

Come in and let's talk it over. Let us show you how great these Chevrolet trucks really are.

Fact No. 1
Costs Less to Buy

Books on Politics Offered Campaign--Confused Voters

For readers anxious to improve their political I.Q.'s, now that both major candidates have opened their campaigns in earnest, books on political subjects are being featured at the Sedalia Public Library this week.

"The Presidency," by Stefan Lorant, gives a complete portrait of an important side of American democracy, our free elections. Complete with contemporary illustrations, the volume covers the background of every campaign from Washington to Truman, portrays the characters of the opposing candidates and describes in sparkling prose the battles that took place. As entertainment as well as information, the book is in a class by itself.

Books that explain how government works — and why more people should take more interest in it — are "Government Is Your Business," by James Keller; "Main Currents in Modern Political Thought," by Hallowell, and "This American People," by Gerald W. Johnson.

"Witness," which is Whittaker Chambers' personal explanation of the Alger Hiss affair, treats with a subject that will be in the forefront during the coming months. Other timely books of lively interest are "Mr. President," by William Hillman, which reflects the private life and thinking (mostly in his own words) of President Harry S. Truman "Crime in America," written by Senator Estes Kefauver to sum up the findings of the Senate Crime Committee, and "The Cry is Peace," by Louis F. Budenz.

Help in understanding this country's foreign relations over the last fifty years will be found in "American Diplomacy, 1900-1950" by George F. Kennan, United States Ambassador to Russia.

In the department of important fiction, the Public Library recommends "The Houses in Between," by Howard Spring, author of "My Son, My Son." Mr. Spring's new book nears the top of the list of most popular fiction.

National Farm Loan Assn. Pays Dividend

Farmers in Cooper, Moniteau, Morgan and Pettis Counties are receiving dividend checks on their stock in the National Farm Loan Association of Sedalia, according to an announcement made today by Perry B. Edde, secretary-treasurer.

The dividend of five per cent was declared by the board of directors of the association at its last meeting, payable to its member-stockholders of record at the close of business on May 31.

The payment of this dividend by the association has the effect of reducing the average interest rate paid this year by the association members to 3.66 per cent on the $690,781 outstanding in mortgage loans, the association's official pointed out.

The dividend payment by this local credit cooperative was made possible by a recent dividend received on its stock in the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis. Thus the association is passing on to its members a portion of the savings made by the cooperative farm mortage system. The remainder of the dividend paid by the bank will be used to build strong reserves in the association.

The directors of the National Farm Loan Association of Sedalia, are D. L. Kauffman, Versailles, president; A. G. Lenz, Boonville, Norbert Fry, Tipton, L. E. Durley, Hughesville, and Marvin Goodwin, Sedalia.

Elliott Scores Democrat Adm. On Pensions

BELLE, Mo. (AP) — Howard Elliott, Republican nominee for governor of Missouri, today scored the past two Democratic state administrations for old age pension regulations which "force pensioners to live in wood sheds, hen houses and vacant rooms to quality."

The Republican candidate speaking at the Belle Fair, called for a return to the original concept of an old age pension "as pioneered in the United States by the Republican Missouri state administration in 1931."

He proposed a four-point program:

1. Establish an amount necessary to maintain the aged dependent in decency and health.
2. Emphasize the concept of a pension and minimize the concept of assistance.
3. Revise the regulation which requires pensions to live in squalor in order to qualify.
4. Appropriate part of the state's surplus to permit the helpless and aged to spend their declining days in comfort.

Earl Wheeler Receives Trip As Top Salesman for Swift

Earl E. Wheeler, 1419 West Fourth, Sedalia, was today named one of the leading salesmen of the nation by Swift and Company.

S. T. Stanford, plant sales salesmanager of Swift's Kansas City plant, announced that Wheeler won the honor because of his outstanding sales record during the past year. He led all Swift salesmen in his district in the Sedalia area.

As a reward, he and his wife will receive an all-expense trip to Chicago and a week of entertainment as guests of his company the week of Oct. 12. In Chicago, the Wheelers will join approximately 75 other leading Swift salesmen and their wives from all parts of the U.S. and Canada. For seven fun-filled days they will see and do everything that can be packed into the time.

Included in the week's activities for the group will be the Ice Follies of 1953 and the Northwestern vs. Michigan football game. They will have breakfast with their company's president, John Holmes, and will lunch with Harold H. Swift, chairman of the board and son of the company's founder.

One day will be spent outdoors at the famous Medinah Country Club where there will be golf tournaments and a specially erected carnival midway. After attending the broadcast of Don McNeill's Breakfast Club, the group will have breakfast with McNeill and the rest of his cast. Still other items on the program will include visits to the museums, parks and leading dining places in Chicago.

A new feature of the week this year will be additional activities designed to appeal especially to the wives of the leading salesmen. Among these will be a tour of Marshall Field's, including a style show, and a visit with Martha Logan, Swift and Company's home economist.

"Leader Week" as the week of entertainment is called, was started by Swift to encourage competition among its salesmen. The idea worked so well that it was continued and has become a tradition with the company. Each year thousands of Swift salesmen compete for the honors. This year's contest was more closely fought than any in recent times.

Court Order Keeps Ike Off Texas Ballot

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — District Judge Jack Roberts today issued a temporary restraining order to prevent the name of the new Texas Democratic Party and its candidate, Eisenhower, from going on the general election ballot in Texas.

The judge set a hearing in the case for Tuesday.

Supporters of Adlai Stevenson filed the suit today.

The suit, filed by Austin Attorney John Cofer, asked a court order to prevent Secretary of State Jack Ross from certifying the new party and its candidates for a place on the ballot.

The Texas Democratic Party was created at a hastly called meeting in Dallas Wednesday, when about 10 anti-Truman Democrats gathered in a private office and nominated the same candidates who will be on the Republican ticket.

Cofer charged in his petition that the "Texas Democratic party," is not a political party because it was not organized under state statutes.

He also contended the new party can not assume the name of an existing party — the traditional "Democratic Party."

Cofer said the names "Democratic Party" and "Texas Democratic Party" are synonymous in Texas because the Democratic Party has been the dominant political group since the Civil War.

The suit seeks a 10-day restrainng order, by the end of which time hearing would be held on whether Judge Roberts should grant a temporary injunction.

Should the 10-day restrainng order be granted, it might prevent the new party from getting on the ballot as Secretary of State Ross plans to send the ballot form to the printer not later than Wednesday of next week.

Rep. Curtis Says FBI Pulled Off Racketeer Case

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Rep. Curtis R-Mo. said today that he learned the Federal Bureau of Investigation made an inquiry into alleged labor racketeering here but was pulled off the investigation.

Curtis' statement followed one by U. S. Attorney George Robertson yesterday that the FBI has been investigating the matter for a year and that any evidence of violations of federal laws will go to a grand jury.

Curtis, congressman from St. Louis County, said: "My information is that the FBI did some checking into labor racketeering here but was called off, and that the inquiry was not being pursued recently.

"I wish to compliment the Justice Department and U. S. District Attorney George L. Robertson for their announced intentions of pushing an inquiry into labor racketeering.

"Meanwhile, I think close scrutiny should be maintained to see just how vigorously this announced inquiry is carried out."

Gen. Marshall Dedicates U. S. Cemeteries

PARIS, (AP) — Gen. George C. Marshall, presiding at a symbolic dedication of memorials in U. S. military cemeteries around the world said today America will stay in Europe as long as European security is threatened.

Spoke as Chairman

Marshall—wartime U. S. Chief of Staff, known throughout Europe as the originator of the Marshall Plan for economic aid in the troubled postwar period, and organizer of the North Atlantic Treaty—spoke only as chairman of the American Battle Monuments Commission. But his voice of reassurance was certain of a hearing throughout Western Europe in these days of a new military build-up.

Speaking at the U. S. military cemetery in suburban Suresnes, Gen Marshall said great strides already have been made toward a spiritual unification of Europe.

We Will Not Go Home

"The men who lie buried here," he said, "in some world beyond our conception, may be unaware of the efforts we are making to promote peace and understanding. But I hope they are deaf to the propaganda demands that we living Americans go home and leave Europe to the mercy of a ruthless aggression. The dead cannot go home. They paid too great a price.

"And we will not go home until our friends here feel that our presence is no longer essential to their security, when we can leave a land free of terrors, a land where the dignity of the individual is supreme, where a feeling of good faith dominates life."

Premier Antoince Pinay of France, Marshal Juin of France, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe, and U. S. Ambassador James C. Dunn, also gave short addresses.

Atomic Sleuths Find 20 Cents of $3.70

CHICAGO (AP)—Atomic sleuths, using the most scientific methods of crime detection, recovered 20 cents of $3.70 in stolen loot today.

But they failed to solve the case of the missing radioactive dimes.

Thirty-five irradiated dimes were stolen Thursday night from a drawer of the Atomic Energy Commission's exhibit at the National Chemical Exposition in the Coliseum.

These dimes lost their radioactivity in about a minute after exposure, so the scientists could not use a radiation-detecting Geiger counter to hunt for them.

Lewis Wants New Welfare Fund Royalty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—(AP)—John L. Lewis was reported today to be shooting for new welfare fund royalty boosts in both the soft coal and hard coal industries.

It has been known for some time that Lewis was concentrating on a 20-cent increase in the hard coal, or anthracite, industry royalty, but it was believed he might forego an increase in the soft coal royalty.

Both branches of the coal industry now pay 30 cents a ton on all production into union-operated funds to provide pensions and other benefits for miners and their families.

The hard coal welfare fund is reported to be about bankrupt but the separate soft coal welfare fund has a 100 million dollar balance.

While this is a lot of money, Lewis is reported worried that declining soft coal production won't bring in enough royalty revenues at the 30-cent tax to pay for the present scale of benefits. This means he eventually would either have to get a larger royalty, reduce the amount of benefits, or dig into the 100 million dollar balance.

Contract negotiations, conducted in unusual secrecy, have been proceeding on three fronts. Lewis has been talking separately with the anthracite producers, with southern soft coal owners and with northern soft coal producers.

The contract talks are entering the showdown stage. A strike in northern soft coal mines may come a week from Monday, on Sept. 22. That is the first day the miners could fail to report for work after an agreement expires on Saturday, Sept. 20.

The agreements between Lewis' United Mine Workers Union and southern soft coal mines, and between the union and the anthracite producers, and ten days later on Sept. 30.

The anthracite operators are reported close to agrement with Lewis on the 20-cent royalty boost. They have another bargaining talk scheduled with Lewis next Tuesday, and the agreement may come then. It probably will be an interim contract, allowing Lewis to try for a future wage increase.

Things don't look so rosy in soft coal. More than 80 days' supply of soft coal is above ground. The stockpile is a drug on the coal market, and prices are considered low. They are below the government ceilings.

Under those circumstances the soft coal owners can afford to try for the terms they want with Lewis. The union head on the other hand, is seeking more wages, more royalties and some plan for regularizing employment among miners.

In the midst of this situation, Lewis has called his union's 200-man policy committee into session Monday afternoon. Lewis is expected to report on the negotiations and make plans for a possible strike.

The chest of drawers sitting in the hall for extra storage space need not be an eye-sore. If the lines aren't too good and you don't want to call attention to it, paper it the same as the walls... especially if the wallpaper is a quaint provincial print. Maybe it is more advisable to paper just the two ends of the chest then paint the drawer fronts in the background color of the paper. The top of the chest can be papered the same as the sides and given a coat of clear varnish for easy dusting.

S-C Blasts Owls In Opener, 24-6

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow's Smith-Cotton Tigers opened the 1952 football campaign Friday night by out-classing a highly rated Marshall Owl eleven, 24-6 before a crowd of nearly 2,500 on the Gregg-Mitchell field at Marshall. The Bengals, in winning, extended their victory streak to six straight over the Saline Countians. The last time Marshall was able to muster a triumph was in 1946.

Owls Score on First Play

In the opening minutes of the contest the out-look for Smith-Cotton appeared dark as Ronnie Deal, the Owls' 180-pound fullback, sprinted 70-yards to pay dirt on the first scrimmage play of the game.

However, the Tigers refused to believe the highly-praised Marshall team was as good as the first play indicated and bounced-back into a tie the first time they got their hands on the pigskin. It was speedy Dave Lingle who tallied the first S-C six-pointer, doing so on a beautiful 77-yard run. From that point Marshall was unable to penetrate Smith-Cotton's 35-yard stripe and the Tiger attack moved almost at will.

The Bengal score suffered from a severe attack of fumbles, which cost them the ball on three occasions inside the Owl 20-yard marker.

Ferguson Puts S-C Ahead

In the opening minutes of the second quarter the locals grabbed the lead for keeps as big Tom Ferguson busted over the Owl line from two-yards out, making the count 12-6.

Smith-Cotton received the kick-off opening the third period and proceeded to score on a 60-yard march, climaxed by Jim Schneck, who knifed-off tackle for ten yards. This made the tally 18-6 in favor of the Sedalians.

Early in the final period Dow's charges counted again with Dave Lingle taking a pitch-out from "Buck" Bennett on the five and scampering across. Tom Ferguson, attempting the point-after-touchdown by placement, missed the mark four consecutive times.

Tight Tiger Air Defense

The Tigers' running machine ground-out a total of 253 yards, compared to Marshall's 168. Through the air the Bengals amassed 93 yards, with Bennett doing the pitching. Marshall found the S-C aerial defense much tighter than last season and gained only 19 yards through the air.

The longest Tiger gain through the air was made on an over-head to Benny Neal, covering about 40 yards.

Probably the most surprising fact to come from the contest was the manner in which Smith-Cotton's huge line performed. After the first play of the game, the Owls were unable to find an opening in the Tiger forward wall and were held to only two first downs in the first and second halves.

Smith-Cotton registered ten first and tens.

No individual on the Smith-Cotton squad received special praise, but Coach Dow was satisfied with their first showing of the season, especally the play of the line.

Play Kemper Here

Smith-Cotton will open the 1952 Central Missouri Conference race next Friday night in their first home game of the season when they meet the Kemper Yellow-Jackets on the Liberty Park gridiron.

Calumet Horses Win Big Races In New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—Two daughters of Bull Lea did themselves proud today as Calumet Farms Real Delight and Alfred Gwyne Vanderbilt's Next Move won split divisions of the rich Beldame Handicap at Aqueduct.

Next Move had an easy time in the first section, hitting the wire three lengths before the closest pursuer, but had to survive a claim of foul before dragging down $43,000 from a gross pot of $62,000.

It was a different story in the second division, as Real Delight and Eddie Arcaro had a battle right down to the finish before the Calumet Star won in the final few jumps. They made it, however, and Real Delight's share of the $62,000 in this scramble was $42,400.

Both were timed in 1:51 flat on a fast track, so maybe they'd have had a dead heat if they were in together.

Real Delight paid $3.20, $2.70 and $2.40 and had high weight of 126 pounds.

Next Move had 125 pounds, and she now is the third leading money leading mare with $398,550, trailing Bewitch and Gallorette. She paid $4.60, $3.40 and $2.80.

Hubbard Tigers Shape-Up Slow Says New Coach

Hubbard High School's Coach Tipton is a little pessimistic about the way in which the Tigers are shaping up. The hot weather during the past week has prevented the boys from giving their best.

There is a large squad of boys, but extremely light and mostly inexperienced.

New boys making a good showing are Bobby Thomas, George Briscoe and Donnie Jones.

If these boys continue to improve, they are almost sure to see first-string action in the opening game, which is here Sept. 26 with the R.T. Coles, of Kansas City. Coach Tipton hopes to have a well-trained team on the field.

Championship Fight Booms Ticket Sales

Ringside Seats $40 Indicated Interest Is Now Nation-Wide

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13 (AP)—A booming sale of $40 ringside tickets reflects the intense nation-wide interest in the Sept. 23 heavyweight title bout between champion Jersey Joe Walcott and Rocky Marciano, the unbeaten challenger.

Orders for the top price tickets are flooding the offices of co-promoters Jim Norris and Herman Taylor. And they are coming from every section of the country.

Expect $600,000 Gate

"We'll do better than $600,000," said Norris. "I don't know how much better. But it may surprise everybody. It's the biggest heavyweight promotion since the Joe Louis-Walcott return, a real old fashion heavyweight championship promotion.

"It looks like the old days when people from all over the country felt they had to be on hand for a title fight. Maybe it's because there will be no home television. Maybe it's because of Marciano. Or maybe Walcott finally has caught on as the champ. Whatever the reason, it looks big."

Theatre Television Chain

Theater television outlets already are hanging out the sellout signs and some are charging as much as $4.80 per copy. The theater-TV chain will extend to California. For the first time even drive-in theaters will be included. Motion pictures of the fight will be available the next day.

While the promoters greet the harvest of greenbacks, the two fighters step through their paces at widely separated points. Walcott, the 38-year-old champ, does his stuff at Atlantic City where he trained for his successful defense against Ezzard Charles. Marciano, just past his 28th birthday, works out at Grossinger, N. Y.

After watching both boys drill, ex-champ Jack Dempsey predicted "another Dempsey - Firpo bout." He wouldn't pick a winner.

Yanks Boosts Lead by Game Over Indians

Bill Martin Stars 2nd Straight Day In Bomber Triumph

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP)—The New York Yankees nosed 1½ games ahead of the Cleveland Indians in the torrid American League pennant race today as Billy "The Schonz" Martin drove in three runs to pace the Bombers a 6-5 victory over Chicago while the Indians dropped a 4-3, ten-inning decision to the Boston Red Sox.

Martin, who batted in three runs in the Yanks' 6-4 victory over the White Sox last night, singled home a run in the third and batted in two more in the eighth.

The Yanks employed three pitchers, Vic Raschi, Johnny Sain and Allie Reynolds, to quell the pesky Sox. Raschi gained credit for his 16th victory but it was Reynolds who saved the bacon. Reynolds relieved Sain in the ninth with two on and none out and retired the next three Sox on infield grounders, one run scoring during the process. Marv. Grissom, 35-year-old righthander, started for Chicago and fanned 13 Yanks in eight innings. He was rocked for 12 hits however, as he tasted defeat for the ninth time.

Rookie Ted Lepcio ruined Bob Lemon and the Indians, breaking up the game with a two-out homer in the tenth, his fourth of the season. Previously, he collected two of five doubles yielded by Lemon and scored on both of them.

Lemon, working with two days rest, sought his 20th victory but suffered his 11th setback, instead.

Veteran Ellis Kinder puzzled the Indians until the seventh inning when the Tribe tied the score at 3-3 on Luke Easter's 30th homer, two singles, a wild throw and Bill Glynn's fly ball. The defeat snapped the Indians' nine-game winnig streak and ended Boston's 11-game losing skein on the road.

The Yanks invade Cleveland tomorrow for the final meeting of the season between the two clubs. Ed Lopat, 8-5 and boasting a 34-9 lifetime record over Cleveland, will pitch for the Yanks against Mike Garcia 20-9. Garcia has beaten the Yanks four times this season without a loss.

In other games, the Philadelphia Athletics swamped Detroit, 11-5 and Boston made the Pittsburgh Pirates walk the plank, 8-0. Washington and St. Louis in the American League and Chicago and Philadelphia in the National were idle.

Yanks Beat Sox, 6-5

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP) — Billy Martin for the second straight day batted across three runs to spur the first-place New York Yankees to a 6-5 win over the Chicago White today and move the Yanks a game and one-half ahead of the Cleveland Indians.

Wanger Leaves Jail After 102-Day Term

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13 (AP) — Producer Walter Wanger was released from jal today after serving 102 days for the jealousy shootng of Jennings Lang, agent for the moviemaker's actress wife, Joan Bennett.

Neat in a grey suit, Wanger walked from the Hall of Justice to face reporters and cameramen.

Wanger, who served most of his sentence at the sheriff's honor farm at nearby Castaic, said he has ideas for three motion pictures and plans to go to work at once on a script based on his prison experiences.

He declined to comment on the possibility of a reconciliation with Miss Bennett. The couple has been estranged since Wanger shot Lang in a Beverly Hills parking lot last December, saying he "broke up my home." Lang has recovered.

The producer spoke highly of his treatment at the honor far, but said he considers penal institutions "Amerca's No. 1 scandal" and "The public is to blame." He said he has worked out a reform program for helping prisoners return to society as better men.

Wanger was originally sentenced to four months, but was given time off for good behavior.

Sports Scraps

(By D. KELLY SCRUTON)

WE put too much faith in what some people tell us. In fact the past two weeks have been a hardship on us around the sports desk after hearing Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow talk of his team and we joined in on the crying section. We even considered putting in orders for some of those great big beach towels, you know the terry-cloth kind which hold lots of water.

There are some of the boys about, who like to venture a quarter or two on how the games are going to come out, but we loyal supporters listened too attentively to Dow and missed a good opportunity of getting a few free cokes next week.

Coach Dow didn't have to go to such great lengths in telling us what a fighting bunch of fellows he has, of how good they'll be some time, and they will put up a good fight against Marshall. He didn't have to indicate his Tigers might lost to those Saline County boys, and have us believe it so strong.

After Friday night, we just can't believe everything he tells us now.

In fact a collection was underway to order another towel for Dow, now he's out of luck.

FRIDAY night we were surprised to see the "little team" come out on the field. We actually were stymied when the Owls tore out on the first play to score, but more surprised when the Tigers took only two scrimmages to score. Then to see the boys settle down like they did and play Marshall off their feet.

Smith-Cotton has a great bunch of boys full of energy, the winning spirit and the desire to win. They played hard, but for two weeks practice and green as they are its a cinch they are willing to learn and work.

But anything can happen. Over confidence can ruin a great start. "Cockyness" likewise can be the downfall of the makings of a winning team. They still have lots to learn, plenty of hard work ahead, but from the first act, Friday nights game against Marshall, they are bound to provide a good show for Smith-Cotton this season.

A warning boys—dont let it go to your heads, don't let it cause you to have too small helmets, just go along with those three good coaches you have, listen to them and play hard like you did Friday night.

'Husker May Be 'If' Eleven Without Reynolds In Big-7

LINCOLN, Nebr., Sept. 13 (AP)—Nebraska, it appears, may well lay claim to being the "if" team of the Big Seven Conference football campaign. The team could be a pesky outfit if:

The injury jinx decides it has ridden the shoulders of rambling Robert Reynolds, the 1950 All-America ace, long enough;

The Huskers can come up with an offensive line that can bang somebody loud enough to give the back room to race;

The defense can be bolstered enough to stop giving away three or four touchdowns to virtually all comers.

Last year Reynolds sat out most of the season with injuries and the offense failed most of the time to offend anybody. The defense was dented for three or more touchdowns by all but two of the ten foes.

True, it was generally a green team. Hence a bit, at least, better season should be due.

From the Big Seven standpoint, Nebraska may well be a .500 per cent team. The Huskers can win their three home games against Iowa State, Kansas State and Missouri. But they meet the three top rated clubs away from Lincoln and figure going in to lose to Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Coach Bill Glassford puts the outlook like this:

"We are not sad. We are not glad. We are hopeful."

Glassford's groans so far have been muted indeed—he's much more inclined to chuckle over what he calls the best scrap for starting position he's had among a Nebraska squad.

He's junking the two platoon system, which means fans will see much more this season of end Dennis Emanuel and tackle Jerry Minnick, a pair of juniors who last year rated nods from opponents for defensive play on a team that had a leaky line.

Other linemen who loom up in the "if" picture of the Huskers are Guards Jerry Paulson and Kay Curtis and Tackle Ed Husmann, as offensive operatiors rooting out room for Reynolds.

Probably starting in the backfield will be John Bordogna, the Huskers' lone experienced quarterback; George Gifra, a big, fast sophomore fullback and Reynolds and Bob Smith as halfbacks. Incidentally, Bordogna and Cifra are both from Turtle Creek, Penn., and Reynolds and Smith from Grand Island, Nebr.

Good backfield help is expected from Juniors Jim Cedardahl, Halfback; Ray Novak, Fullback; and Sophomore Dan Brown, a South Dakota sophomore who surprised with his quarterback work in early workouts.

K-State Forced To Forfeit 1951 Football Win Over MU

MANHATTAN, Kas., Sept. 13 (AP)—Kansas State college today forfeited the only Big Seven Conference football game it had won in more than two years because two of its players were ineligible.

College authorities said the school forfeited last season's 14 to 12 victory over Missouri and a 6 to 6 tie game with Nebraska as well.

The triumph over Missouri was Kansas State's first conference victory since the Wildcats beat Colorado in 1949, and it was their third since 1944.

Norman Carter Named

The ineligible players were identified as Joe Norman, an end from Millersburg, O., and George Carter, star punter.

Kansas State notified the Big Seven during the summer that it had learned Carter was ineligible because he had competed at the University of Tennessee before coming here.

The K-State Athletic Council investigated Norman's case last night and decided that he was ineligible because he played freshman football at Ohio State University in 1950.

Big Seven rules require one year of residence before a transfer student is eligible for athletics.

The council said the records show that both Carter and Norman stated on the Kansas State admission blanks that they had not attended another college and had not competed in athletics.

Another Athlete Ruled Out

The council also ruled that a third athlete, Royall Hall, also from Millersburg, was ineligible last fall but played only 20 seconds in one game against a non-conference team—Tulsa University.

The investigation was made following receipt of a letter yesterday from Prof. Sam Shirky, a faculty representative at the University of Missouri, who called attention to the enrollment of Norman and Hall at Ohio State.

The athletes are not attending K-State this year.

Matter Unknown To K-State

Eric Tebow, K-State's faculty representative, said today in a letter to Shirky that the Athletic Council was convinced that neither Coach Bill Meek or any members of his staff knew the men were ineligible.

Tebow said the men wrote Meek in applying for entrance to K-State and that no one at Kansas State had any "reason to question the eligibility of these men."

Tebow pledged that a thorough investigation of athletes entering the school will be made in the future before they are certified as eligible."

"We assure you and all other Big Seven faculty representatives that we regret the circumstances which have occurred and that our desire is to maintain the respect of our member institutions," Tebow added in his letter.

Snead Leads By 3 Strokes In East Open

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13 (AP)—Sam Snead turned on the steam today to leave the field in the dust at the three-quarter mark of the eastern Open with a three stroke lead over his closest pursuer.

The golf craftsman from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., birdied his way to a four-under par 68 and 54-hole total of 206, 10 strokes better than par for that distance.

That put Snead in line tomorrow to break the record winning score of the past two tourneys, 279 for 72 holes.

Snead broke from second position at the start of the third round, one stroke behind Johnny Bulla of Verona, Pa. But Bulla faltered in the mid-ninety degree heat on Mt. Pleasant and went two over par for the first nine.

Snead was three under there and kept winging away to beat par by another stroke on the back nine.

Bulla, leader for the first two rounds, wound up two over par and dropped to a fourth place tie at 211 with Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif.

Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., vaulted into the runner-up spot with a 69 for a total of 209. A stroke behind him were Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill., who matched Snead's 68, and Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas who had 71 on the third round.

Innocent Bystander Killed In Barroom

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Police reported that a truck driver, described as an innocent bystander, was shot dead today by a plain-clothes vice squad officer in a barroom scuffle.

Afterward, Police Chief William Parker led some 50 officers to the cafe to hold back a crowd of 300 persons who shouted epithets at the police.

The victim was Serando Canales, 45, father of two sons, 24 and 25 years old, and a married daughter.

CMC Teams All Enjoy Victories

Every team in the Central Missouri Conference to see action Friday night enjoyed the taste of victory in the opening games of the season. Besides Smith-Cotton's 24-6 triumph over Marshall, Jefferson City dumped Mexico 32-20, Hannibal upset Rushville, Ill., 6-0, and the defending CMC champions trimmed a highly rated Fulton Hornet eleven, 25-6.

In other games involving teams in this area, Higginsville smashed Slater, 32-0; Lee's Summit nipped Clinton, 6-0; Warrensburg bowed to Lexington, 32-0, and the Windsor Greyhounds belted Appleton City, 27-0.

Billy Mills For Kewpies

It was Billy Mills' fine running and passing that gave the Kewpies an easier evening than they expected. Mills personally tallied three TDs and shot a 28-yard pass to Mike Reid for another. Mills blasted over tackle and rambled 50-yards for his best run of the evening.

At Hannibal, the Pirates turned-in a pleasing surprise by holding Rushville scoreless. The Bucs defense held the Illinois eleven to 95 yards via running and 16 by passing. It wasn't until the final quarter of the contest that the CMC team was able to score. Fullback George Bush smashed over on a one-yard plunge to cap a 63-yard drive. Bud Youle made runs of 16 and 23 yards during the scoring drive.

Pete Walz was the spark in the Jays' triumph over a strong Mexico Bulldog squad. Walz, who turned-in fine runs throughout the contest, skirted end for the first Jay marker, but Bobby Hall of Mexico evened the count several plays later. Fullback Ken Jobe put the Jays ahead to stay with a seven yard smash. Next Friday night the Jays open their conference activity against the Hannibal team.

Big Seven Grid Notes

Kansas Sparkles in Passing

LAWRENCE, Kas., Sept. 13 (AP)—The Whites topped the Reds 34 to 26 in an intra-squar football game at the University of Kansas today.

The White outfit was stocked mainly with defensive players and they held the upper hand just as they did in last Saturday's scrimmage.

While neither team was able to run the ball consistently because of inadequate blocking, the passing attacks of both units sparkled. Five of the nin touchdowns were scored on passes and a long throw set up a sixth.

Quarterbacks Jerry Robertson and Gil Reich each threw two touchdown passes.

Carras Defense Substitute

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 13 (AP)—The White-clab defensive platoon defeated the gold-clad offensive platoon 21 to 0, in a full dress scrimmage today at the University of Missouri.

Nick Carras, who had worker early in to season with the offense, but got in as a substitute with the defensive team this afternoon, reeled off on 60-yard run and other shorter gains. Tony Scardino, borrowed from the offensive outfit to pilot the Whites, was the outstanding forward passer.

Bill Rowekamp and Ike Jennings, at ends, did the best defensive job for the offensive platoon.

Rugged I-State Practice

AMES, Ia., Sept. 13 (AP)—The Iowa State Cyclones topped off a week of rugged practice today with a sluggish full dress scrimmage. A Gold team, quarterbacked by Dick Mann, outscored the Green 33-7.

Stan Cozzi and Al Stevenson highlighted the session with touchdown runs of 70 and 60 yards, respectively, for the Gold.

Coach Abe Stuber said his squad showed no enthusiasm and laid the apparent weakness to a series of minor injuries and the fact the boys were tired after the week's work.

Bobby Reynolds Kicks Point

LINCOLN, Neeb. Sept. 13(AP)—The Whites, a team composed of sophomores, upset the favored Reds 10-7 today in the final University of Nebraska pre-season football game scrimmage. Nebraska opens its season here next Saturday against South Dakota.

Guard John Machisic, Turtle Creek, Pa., and Back Emil Radik, Omaha, stood out for the Whites, accounting for all their points. John Bordogna, Turtle Creek quarterback, went over with the only touchdown for the losers. All-America Bob Reynolds got into the game only to kick the extra point for the Reds.

Taylor in Long Runs

MANHATTAN, Kas., Sept. 13(AP)—Corky Taylor, speedy sophomore halfback, scored three touchdowns in a display of brilliant broken-field running today as the Kansas State varsity defeated the freshmen, 32 to 0.

Taylor, of Kansas City, ran 40, 60 and 25 yards for the scores and also turned in jaunts of 50, 35 and 25 yards.

Bob Dahnke and Bernie Dudley made the other touchdowns.

Coach Bill Meek said it was learned today that Halfback Dick Towers does not have a broken foot after all. The fracture shown in an x-ray was an old one of several years ago. Towers will return to action next week, but may not be ready for the Bradley game Sept. 20, Meek said.

Jordan Passes 'Em Dizzy

BOULDER, Colo., Sept. 13(AP)—Zack Jordan, senior left halfback, passed his opponents dizzy Saturday as Colorado University footballers player a two-hour game scrimmage.

Jordan, playing with the No. 2 offensive unit, passed and ran for touchdown after touchdown against the No. 2 defensive unit.

The No. 1 defensive unit held the No. 2 offensive unit scoreless.

The Buffaloes emerged from the rugged workout with only two minor injuries. Dick Knowlton, an offensive tackle, bruised a shoulder and Ron Gray, a defensive halfback, hurt a foot.

Seven squad members with minor ailments were withheld from action by Coach Dallas Ward.

Rugged Sooner Practice

NORMAN, Okla., Sept. 13 (AP)—Fumbles and ragged play marred today's full scrimmage by Oklahoma footballers.

Nine fumbles, four pass interceptions and 150 yards i npenalties were chalked up as the Reds whipped the Whites, 38 to 19.

Stars of the workout were Billy Vessels who ran 75 yards for a touchdown with key blocks thrown by John Reddell and Perry Donaghey; and Eddie Crowder who tossed a 35-yard paydirt pass to Merrill Green.

Miller Stalls Dodger Drive For Pennant

Giants Win But Brooklyn Has a Three-Game Lead

BROOKLYN, Sept. 13 (AP)—Stu Miller, precocious rookie right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals stalled Brooklyn's National League pennant drive today as he pitched the Redbirds to a 5-2 victory over the Dodgers.

The defeat cut Brooklyn's lead over the runner-up New York Giants to three games. The Giants advanced by nosing out the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2.

Leads Hitting Role

Miller also played a leading role in the Cards' 11-hit attack against recruit lefthander Ken Lehman and two relief pitchers, driving in three runs on a single and ground ball.

The youngster's vast assortment of pitches completely baffled the Dodgers who managed to solve his offerings for only four hits. Miller walked only two and fanned eight in gaining his fifth victory of his brief major league career.

Brooklyn led only once, in the first inning, when it scored once with the help of two errors.

The Cards forged ahead for keeps in the second inning when Miller singler with the bases loaded and two out to drive in two runs.

Lowery Launches Uprising

Peanuts Lowrey singled and Larry Miggins doubled with one out to launch the uprising. Tommy Glaviano took a third strike. Lehman then intentionally walked Del Rice to fill the bases. Miller crossed up the move by singling through third base.

The Cards wrapped it up with two more in the fourth. Their fifth run came in the sixth.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 13 (AP)— Stu Miller, sensational rookie right-hander, checked Brooklyn's National League pennant drive today as he pitched and batted the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-2 triumph over the Dodgers. Miller allowed the Brooks only four hits and drove in three runs on a single and ground ball.

Republicans Launch Drive In St. Louis

Howard Elliott Has Appeal With Labor, Negro Factions

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—Republicans plan an all-out effort to cut the Democrats' previous large vote margins in St. Louis by centering the major part of their campaign in this area.

Some party leaders said today that Howard Elliott of St. Louis County, GOP candidate for governor, has strong appeal to both labor and Negro groups.

These two groups make up a large segment of the city's voting population and in past elections largely have gone Democratic.

Elliott Has Offers

"Mr. Elliott has many offers of support from both labor and Negro leaders," A. D. Welsh, Republican national committeeman for Missouri said.

"He has taken the lead in proposing a state fair employment practices commission which will eliminate job discrimination against Negroes," Welsh said.

Headquarters in St. Louis

The party's state headquarters will be here rather than Jefferson City, but it will deal exclusively with the farm program.

Welsh said the picture outstate is good for the party. Sen. James P. Kem, seeking re-election, and Elliott are being received well by large crowds, "even in what is called Little Dixie," Welsh said.

The St. Louis drive will be set off by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's speech here next Saturday. The Republican presidential candidate will address the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs that night.

Face Uphill Fight

Party leaders admit they face an uphill fight in St. Louis. Chief Democratic attraction to St. Louis voters is Stuart Symington, Kem's opponent for the Senate seat, who lives in the county.

A factor favoring Elliott is labor's general dissatisfaction with the Democratic candidate Phil M. blame Donnelly with the passage of the King-Thompson Utility Anti-strike law and the Madison Labor Act, which since has been repealed.

In the August primary those labor leaders worked strongly for Phil J. Welch, Donnelly's opponent.

They have endorsed Democrats in most other races coming up in November, but have shied away from speaking out on the governor's contest.

Negro Given Treatment For Cut On His Face

Patterson, according to the police reports, was attacked while in the 100 block on East Main. He was taken to the hospital by the police for treatment.

Lawrence Hogan, 205 East Hogan, was arrested by the police in connection with the affair and has been released on a $200 signed bond to appear in police court Friday, Sept. 26.

Democrat Committee Chairmen Appointed By Chairman Durley

Chairman Durley announced the appointments of various committee Chairmen which were approved by the county committee members. Committees named were Finance, Publicity, Speakers, Women's Division, Young Voters Division, Entertainment, Executive and Organizational.

An announcement was made of a seven-county meeting to be held in Clinton Monday afternoon. State Chairman Wilbur Daniels, Fayette, will be in charge of this meeting. All County Committee members, officers, candidates and others interested are invited to attend this meeting. It is one of a series that are being held over the state by Chairman Daniels.

Chairman Durley stated transportation can be obtained to this meeting by calling the Pettis County headquarters in the Kahn Building.

Pettis Countians Are Bound Over To Circuit Court

Charles Edward Stevens, LaMonte and Charles Melvin Shull, Green Ridge, were arrested Friday by State Trooper Earl Gregory on a charge of grand larceny.

Charges against the two were filed in the Magistrate Court Saturday and both men waived preliminary hearings. They were bound over to the November term of Circuit Court. Bond on each was set at $1,000. Failing to make bond, both men were placed in the County Jail.

The charges were filed as a result of an investigation the state patrol was conducting on a car robbery several weeks ago. In the robbery a radio, tire, wheel, sun shades, venetian blinds, cushions and other objects were taken. All of the objects were recovered with exception of a trouble light.

The men are also being held for an investigation of a car robbery in Dresden two weeks ago.

Move to Apartment

Dr. A. G. House and Mrs. J. J. Keever, who have been living for the past few months at 1120 East Tenth, are now located permanently at 1302 South Osage in one of Mrs. Mayfield's apartments.

Engineers Put $179 Million Cost Tag on April's Big Flood

OMAHA, Sept. 13 (AP)—Army engineers today put a 179 - million dollar cost tag on the flood that ravaged the Missouri river basin last April.

The figure covers both the damage and the cost of fighting the flood.

Flood protection works built under the Pick-Sloan plan for Missouri basin development and already in service spared the area additional damages estimated at $238,580,000, according to Brig. Gen. W. E. Potter, Missouri River division engineer.

The Pick-Sloan plan calls for the construction of more than 100 dams and reservoirs plus levees, channel improvements and other projects for irrigation, flood control, power generation and allied purposes. Construction started seven years ago.

The April flood, worst of record on the Missouri, resulted from the rapid melting of an unusually heavy cover of winter snow in the Dakotas and Montana. The runoff dumped an unprecedented load of water into the channel and the effects were felt all the way from Montana, through the Dakotas Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Research by army engineers yielded this flood box score: 2,122,000 acres flooded, 1,195,000 acres of cropland flooded, 120 cities and towns flooded, 140 highways closed, 39 railroads closed, and 87,000 persons displaced.

The breakdown of flood losses: $72,833,000 to agriculture; $33,400,000 to towns and cities; $29,209,000 from disruption of transportation, communications and utilities; $43,558,000 damage to levees, river improvement works, cost of flood fighting and evacuation.

The cost of fighting the flood was figured at $12,531,000. This covered the money spent by the federal government, local interests and the Red Cross.

Of the flood affected states, Missouri suffered the heaviest losses, the army engineer report showed. Missouri's loss was $53,842,000, compared with $30,564,000 for Nebraska, $24,768,000 for South Dakota, $43,412,000 for Iowa, $17,395,000 for Kansas, $2,439,000 for North Dakota and $6,580,000 for Montana.

The only reason farm damages exceeded city damages was that flood control works spared Omaha, Council Bluffs and the Kansas Citys, Gen. Potter said.

Flood fighting costs in the Kansas City district (covering an area from the mouth near St. Louis to Rulo, Neb.) were estimated at $4,595,000. In the Omaha district, Rulo to the North Dakota-South Dakota border, the cost was $7,655,200.

Negro Youth Countinues A Robbery Habit

A Negro youth who has been picked up several times in the last few weeks for many robberies at different places was taken again Saturday for two thefts in the past week. He admitted to breaking into the Floyd McFarland home at the State Fair Grounds and also the Standard Station at Main and Missouri Avenues.

He made a confession to State Patrolmen Pete Stohr and Earl Gregory; and to Police officers Perry Franklin, George Brown and Joe Patterson.

Mrs. James Denny Leaves Lamy's and Sedalia for Texas

Mrs. James T. Denny
(Lehmer Photo)

The last member of the James T. Denny family to leave the city in which they have so long been a part, departed Friday for Houston, Tex., to make her home. Vinnie, Mrs. James Denny, was born and reared in Sedalia. When her husband was made manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Houston, her daughter, Patricia, went to Houston to college and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillie Creegan, who had lived in the Denny home since the death of her husband, went along to Houston to be with Patricia, Vinnie thought she should go, too. But the ties were so strong in Sedalia, surely, she thought, something had to happen to bring her family back home and she tried to stick it out until it did happen.

It was back in January 1950, that Mr. Denny, who had been with the Metropolitan in Sedalia for a number of years, received the nice promotion and was sent to Houston. When it came college time Patricia and her aunt went, too, and Vinnie was left just thinking that she would hold on to her job at the Lamy Manufacturing Company and maybe they would come back.

In the meantime Jim Denny liked Houston better and better. Of course there was still a warm spot in his heart for Sedalia. After all it was his home town. He, too, was reared here. He had married Vinnie here in Nov. 1930, and Patricia had grown up here, but his job, and it is a good job, was in Houston. Patricia liked Houston, Lillie liked Houston and they were certain if they ever got Vinnie down there for a long enough period she would like it, too.

Then Patricia married and that settled things with her. It was certainly Houston.

A few weeks ago Patricia became ill. That was too much for Vinnie. She had to be with her, so she went down. Patricia needed her and she stayed five weeks—and in five weeks she began to like Houston. After all, it was wonderful to be with her family again, and she gave up the dream that the family was certain to return to Sedalia and decided that what she really wanted was to be in Houston with her family.

So Mr. and Mrs. Denny came back home—he on a vacation and she to resign from the Lamy Manufacturing Company as assistant secretary-treasurer. Vinnie had never known anything else but Lamy's. She had gone right out of high school into the office of the company. That was 35 years ago, on May 20, 1917.

But now it is a new life for Vinnie—a new life in a new town, and she is certain that she is going to be happy there. However, we have a feeling that down there in Houston, at 2334 Robinhood, the latch string will always be hanging out for Sedalians—for the last of the family has moved from Sedalia—but it will always be home and they love it.

Ft. Monmouth Drive Against Poor Driving

FT. MONMOUTH, N. J., (AP) — The long arm of the Army is getting longer.

Regardless of where or when it occurs, on this post or 1,000 miles away, on or off duty, an auto accident involving any Fort Monmouth man can get him in trouble here.

Depending on the seriousness of the mishap and the degree of his responsibility, the man (enlisted or officer) may even find himself facing a court martial.

In fact, Fort Monmouth already has seen 16 courts marial in the past three months.

As a result, wherever they drive, the Fort Monmouth boys are going more carefully these days. Everyone at this signal corps center knows the "old man" isn't fooling.

The crackdown on careless driving began shortly after Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton took command of Fort Monmouth and its 11,000 men last January. He expressed concern that more than 10 per cent of New Jersey's auto accidents were occurring in the shore area around this post. A great number, he found, involved military personnel.

In March, Gen. Lawton called a conference of civilian and military traffic enforcement officers. He ordered refresher courses in safe driving at the post. He set up a "road-eo" near the motor pool and drivers had to gauge their distances carefully in backing and turning between rows of railraod ties.

Safety movies were shown, memoranda were circulated and strong editorials and articles on safe driving were published frequently in the post newspaper.

But the accident rate involving Fort Monmouth personnel did not go down enough.

So the commanding general set a quota of 27 accidents involving military personnel at fault for the month of May. The quota was exceeded and Gen. Lawton, noting that many of the mishaps occurred between midnight and dawn, made all companies, except those which had had no accidents, subject to a midnight bed check.

For June, Lawton ordered the monthly quota cut to 15, five for each 10-day period. But by June 5, post personnel had their seventh accident. The next night, Lawton called a formation of all personnel below the rank of captain. He imposed a three-day ban on pleasure driving among all ranks below captain. No officers above lieutenant had been involved in auto accidents.

That did it. In July, there were only 13 accidents involving Fort Monmouth men.

In the last three months, Fort Monmouth men have had a total of 64 traffic violations. Most of these received relatively mild penalties, like restriction to the post.

But 16 went before a court martial. The most serious offense, involving a hit and run accident, brought the guilty man six months at hard labor. He was busted from corporal to private and fined two-thirds of his pay for six months.

Several other drivers, who had fallen asleep at the wheel, also were given six months, busted and fined.

Servicemen Get Cards For Ballots

WASHINGTON Sept. 13 (AP) — Monday every service man in the U. S. will be handed a small buff card which will offer him the opportunity to vote on whether he wants a general for president.

It's a printed postcard form on which he can ask for an absentee ballot to vote in his home state in the Nov. 4 general election starring Gov. Adlai Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Federal law says each serviceman must be handed the card personally. The Armed Forces chose Monday as "Postcard Day" for men in the U. S. For men overseas it was Aug. 15.

Of the present 3½ million service men, more than 2½ million are eligible to vote Nov. 4.

In 1944, the only year a comparable situation existed, nearly 30 per cent of eligible servicemen did vote, along with about 58 per cent of eligible civilians.

The Defense Department has been working hard since last November to turn out the maximum service vote. It has been following Congress' orders to give every man—overseas or in the U. S. — information on how he can vote.

Whether a service man does vote depends to a degree on his home state's absentee voting laws. Each state controls its own voting procedure.

Although President Truman pleaded earlier this year with Congress and the states to make absentee voting laws uniform, little was done. They're still a never-never land and in many cases completely bar service voting.

Two states—New Mexico and South Carolina — permit no absentee balloting. No service man can vote unless he's home on leave.

Four states — Alabama, Delaware, Florida, Louisiana—don't allow absentee voting if the man hasn't registered in person to vote. This stops many thousands of servicemen.

Ten states allow a man to register to vote as an absentee but require a special registration form. Many servicemen have found the red tape too heavy.

In the remaining states service men have a fairly good chance of having their votes counted. In some, however, the time given them to apply for and mail in their ballots is very short.

To combat the time element, the Post Office and Defense Departments have locked arms. As soon as the service man drops his postcard ballot application into his unit mail clerk's box, special speedy handling starts.

Since the election balloting material is all marked as such, it's sorted, put in special marked mail bags and airmailed free to its destination. Post office clerks have been ordered to keep a sharp eye out for such mail.

Of course the mere fact that a man is in the service doesn't mean he doesn't have to meet the general requirements of his state for all voters.

He has to be a citizen and be 21 years old except in Georgia, where anyone over 18 may vote. He'll have to certify he's lived in the place he casts his ballots for a certain length of time. And to vote in 13 states he'll have to prove he can read or write, or both, in some manner.

Mexico City Is Sinking At 18-Inches a Year Rate

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13 (AP) — This ancient Aztec capital, third largest city on the continent, is sinking at the rate of 18 inches a year.

The sinking is due to lack of water in the clay subsoil. Paradoxically, the same lack of water is causing the floods which have cost merchants millions of pesos so far this year.

When the Spaniards came, they found Mexico City built on an island in a lake. Gradually the lake was drained and the city spread over its former bed. All the city except a few suburbs is built on the lake bottom.

This is a layer of clay some 200 feet thick. Clay shrinks to about two thirds of its normal volume when it is dried. For centuries the clay stayed wet.

But Mexico City's quick growth, from 250,000 inhabitants only 50 years ago to 3,000,000 today, strained her normal water supplies. These came from springs beside the former lake bed. To make up for the water shortage, some 9,000 wells were drilled. These brought up the water from the subsoil, drying it and making the surface shrink as the clay contracted.

The sinking would not be so bad if it were even. But it is greater under and around heavy buildings. The big marble Fine Arts Palace has sunk ten feet since it was started in 1940. Doorways once at the head of majestic flights of steps are now at ground level.

More serious is what the irregular sinking has done to the drainage and water systems. The water department estimates only two-thirds of the water pumped into the main lines ever reaches the consumer. Leakage from sewers into water lines poses a serious health problem.

The floods are due to two principal causes. The broken lines permit clay to be washed into the pipes and block them. On top of that, the city has sunk below the level of the main drainage canal.

The temporary cure has been expensive and ineffective. During the dry season, city employes empty the sewers of tons of clay around the manholes. The city has put earthen walls around big ponds where the sewers empty into the drainage canal. Emergency pumps ordered from the U. S. last spring now lift storm waters into the ponds and then into the canal during dry periods.

This has not been enough to halt floods in a city where an inch of rain may fall in 15 minutes. That is just too much rain for clogged sewers originally built for a city of 250,000 people.

The result has been floods which last for weeks in some older parts of the city. One heavy rain closed half the stores in the center of town for three days.

Boys and unemployed men made hay while the rain fell. Army surplus rafts ferried pedestrians over the deepest floods. For 50 centavos — 6 cents U. S. — a grown man would carry one piggyback across the street. Or you could scramble into a wheeled cart and be pushed through the flood.

But these solutions were only the aspirin for the headache. The cure, whatever it is, will be delayed and expensive.

When the floods started last spring, the government hastily named a board of engineers to draft a long-range plan. The board said the first step should be to build three new deep-level trunk sewers. Work on these has started but water will still have to be pumped up from the sewer outfalls to the main drainage canal.

The board's final report is due this fall. Meanwhile there are lots of other ideas.

The main problem is to halt the sinking of the city by restoring water to the clay subsoil. One step has been the reduction in the use of wells. Drilling additional wells has been banned and the government is trying to close those already opened. This is difficult because so many of them are illegal, drilled without government permission.

Another proposal has been to drill still more holes down into the clay. They would be kept full of rain water so it will filter into the soil. Some engineers doubt this would work — they say the number of water holes would need to be astronomical.

Still another idea is to dig a canal to bring water from other parts of the valley of Mexico to the outskirts of the city, where it would be allowed to sink into the soil. Too slow, say the engineers — clay will not absorb water that fast.

Another proposal is to cut through an upright clay dyke which cuts the valley in two and runs down through the underlying soil to bedrock. The theory is that this would permit underground water from the surrounding mountains to restore moisture to the clay.

There is also a move to ban building of any more "skyscrapers" — that means any building over five stories in Mexico Ciay. The theory is that the lower buildings would not be heavy enough to squeeze water out of the clay into the wells.

The primary problem is to halt the shrinking of the clay. City engineers say they can rebuild the sewage system—a long and expensive job — but any sewers built now would be wrecked within a few years.

Mexico doesn't have the money to spend on a sewer network which won't last any longer than that.

What Visitor Can See When He Visits Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13 (AP) — Ben Parker, amusements editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, asks an interesting question.

He wants to know just what the average visitor to Hollywood from Memphis or any other city can expect to see of the movie studios and of movies actually being shot.

"I want something," he writes, "That will give a guileless mess of tourists without any special pull an inkling of what they can reasonably expect to see and how they should go about it."

Here's the word, Ben.

First of all, the average tourist without any studio or other pull will never get past the studio gate. But that doesn't mean he can't see plenty of movie stars, or see a movie being made.

The Tanner Motor Bus Line has a tour that takes tourists on the Warner lot for a drive through. Passengers are not allowed to get off, but often can catch a glimpse of a movie being shot on one of the permanent outdoor sets. Unfortunately, two disastrous fires recently destroyed these sets so the chances are pretty slim now. Occasionally, stars are spotted walking between stages.

The bus tour also gets on the nearby Republic lot where the chances are about the same. Some times an unusually friendly star will board the bus at a stop and sign autographs.

The best advice for seeing a movie company actually at work is to find an outdoor location. The current trend towards realism is bringing more movies off the sound stages than ever before.

For instance, a number of scenes for "Three for Bedroom C" were shot at the Santa Fe station n Pasadena. A residential street near the University of Southern California campus was used for many shots of "Come Back, Lttle Sheba." You could have watched Jean Simmons and Robert Mitchem emote at a Beverly Hills mansion for some scenes of "The Murder.

But you'd better bring binoculars. Even on the outdoor locations studio police keep crowds a respectable distance from the sensitive microphones. The studios don't want to be anti - social, but outside noises have ruined many a take and added thousands to picture costs.

"Panic Stricken" was shot almost wholly on Los Angeles location. Scenes were made in such public places as the May Co., Wilshire, the Los Angeles County Jail, a San Fernando Valley nightclub, a downtown office building and bank, a downtown hotel and Los Angeles International Airport.

The hotel scenes were shot while a dental convention was taking place. One startled delegate, arising late opened his door to find a hallway of movie paraphernelia and Teresa Wright standing there with only a towel wrapped around her.

Of course, you don't always have to come to Hollywood to see movies being made. They say that Marilyn Monroe attracted more tourists than the falls when the shapely star went east to make "Niagara."

New York streets are favorite locales for movies. A look at the trade papers, Variety and Hollywood Reporter, sold at most news stands, may tip you where location units are shooting.

If you just like to see movie stars in person, it's very easy. I have seen them in supermarkets, drug stores, theaters, and the hundred and one places that you're apt to see anyone else.

But if you want a sure tip — go to the restaurants and cafes they frequent. If you want, you can eat in the same room with them. Prices are high but probably no higher than comparable good restaurants in most big cities. You don't have to order filet mignon. Many of the stars eat only rabbit food themselves.

Or, if you prefer, just wait outside and watch them go in and out. None use side or rear entrances out here. You'll find most movie stars want just as much to be seen as you want to see them.

Best bets along this line are the Brown Derby restaurants. One near Hollywood and Vine is the prime hangout for radio and television celebrities and many movie stars. You're apt to see Benny, Burns and Allen, Ronald Colman and others. CBS and NBC are nearby.

The Beverly Hills Brown Derby is another eating place of stars.

Best time here is the lunch hour. This is when most Hollywood correspondents are conducting interviews with the stars.

Another cafe is Lucey's, on Melrose Avenue in Hollywood.

This has the closest cocktail lounge to both Paramount and RKO Studios. Studio commissaries do not serve hard liquor.

A little lunch counter just outside the Paramount Gate, Oblath's is also a good place to spot stars. If you're out here around World Series time or some fall afternoon when Notre Dame is playing football, you might spy rabid sportsman Bing Crosby at the television set.

I know, because he stood beside me for a couple of last year's Series games.

Of course, the night clubs on the Sunset Strip, like Ciro's and Mocambo, are good places to hang around. You may have to stay up late but sometimes it's worth it. If there's more than two in your crowd, Jerry Lewis is apt to put on a show for you on the street.

Favorite hangout of big name stars with pocketbooks to match is Romanoff's in Beverly Hills. Lunch, dinner or after theater supper hour are good here.

If you hang around the studio gates, you'll see the stars coming and going to work. Out here stars are just people like everybody else.

International Airport and Union Station are also good spots to see the celebrities coming and going. If there's a group of news photographers waiting around, it's a sure bet that Rita or Lana is due back.

You can also buy maps of the stars' homes and drive past them. And, of course, there are always the premieres.

When a frost is heavy enough to blacken growing vegetation, it is called a "black frost."

One gets scant argument these days when he declares: "Politics is dirty; stay out of it."

The axiom seems to be getting universal acceptance. A movie shown at Kiwanis had as its theme, "Government Is Your Business," and went on to show how a determined young man resisted the imputation politics was dirty and that he should stay out of it.

There seems to be a growing revulsion to machine politics whose pressures are exerted to maintain power regardless of the candidates' moral fibre, ability, or interest in clean government.

But revulsion without effort will not bring a change. Voters must resist unwholesome pressures and go enmasse to the polls and vote, a citizenship obligation which definitely has been neglected in this country.

A challenge is offered to younger citizens of ability and honesty to offer themselves as candidates for public office, to wage aggressive campaigns for local, state and national offices.

Party choices for this year's elections already have been made. There are some outstanding candidates on both tickets; and some not so good. Citizenship responsibility demands screening of them before the vote is cast.

That's all that can be done for the moment. For the future there should be more encouragement of citizens of competency to throw their hats in the political rings.

"The doctor says I've got to quit smoking."

How often do you hear that remark?

In this instance the doctor can't be wrong because smoking does not contribute to bodily health.

Smokers claim tobacco gives them certain satisfaction. Used moderately, maybe it does, but excessivly, no. When a smoker smokes not because he desires it, but because of reflex action—an involuntary stimulus—he has become a chain smoker.

Some people are allergic to tobacco and don't know it until the doctor tells them why they should quit entirely. If there is something constitutionally wrong with you, the best thing is to become a non-smoker. You can't lose.

Confirmed smokers say that is the best medicine—quit. It requires too much will power just to cut down on consumption. The doctor says, "Why torture yourself by reducing your smoking—the easy way is to quit."

Personally I don't think there is so much torture in practicing moderation. Instead of being automatic about reaching for a cigar, a cigarette, or reloading the pipe, just pause and ask yourself if you really desire a smoke at that particular time. Chances are your more sensible self will reply "no" —so you just wait. Soon you control your smoking habit, instead of it controlling you. Then the smokes you do take moderately taste better and are more satisfying.

Before you can live amicably with other people, you've got to learn to live with yourself.

Some persons become life-long mental gypsies. They are always moving away from their responsibilities to their employer, their family, or to society as a whole. They become unfit to live with others as well as unfit to live with themselves because they won't stop long enough to meditate about their personal problems and try to solve them, or ask anyone else to help them.

A mental drifter never sights a port because he never tries to paddle or use the God-given directional winds that will take him to the haven of congenial association with fellow men and women.

Resolve to be yourself, but dedicate that self to others; they will help to stabilize you.

Caudle's Off-The-Record Testimony Interests Committee

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952. By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — Lamar Caudle, the assistant attorney general who was fired by Presdent Truman during the tax probe, made a far better impression on the Chelf committee in executive session than when facing the kleig lights and microphones of the King Committee.

Congressmen got the impression that Caudle's over-all record as tax prosecutor was much better than judged by his incoherent testimony before the King Committee.

Though the recent sessions were off - the - record in closed-door meetings, here are the highlights of his testimony:

1. He put the finger on two former justice department associates, Peyton Ford and Herbert Bergson, for warming up future law clients while still in the justice department.

2. Defended his old boss, Attorney General Tom Clark, now on the supreme court.

3. Indicated it was probably President Truman's fault that James E. Finnegan, the Collector of Internal Revenue in St. Louis, was not fired. Caudle tried to help fire him.

4. Reported that Matt Connelly, a White House secretary, had asked him to delay one tax - fraud case against Irving Sachs of St. Louis.

5. Dramatically recited many tax cases that he had prosecuted despite lagging U. S. attorneys, among them cases against big-shot gamblers Sam Beard and Emmitt Waring of Washington, and Vaughan Cannon of Asheville, N. C.

Off-Again-On-Again Finnegan

Most dramatic of Caudle's testimony was given in reply to congressional questions about the Finnegan case in St. Louis where U. S. Judge George Moore of St. Louis testified that the Justice Department, through Ellis Slack, tried to sidetrack a grand jury.

"Drake Watson (U. S. Attorney in St. Louis) telephoned me," testified Caudle, "and said, 'We've got a judge out here who isn't satisfied with the way we're handling tax cases before the Grand Jury. Can't you send someone out to help?'

"I told Drake," continued Caudle, " 'All my men are busy here. We've got too many cases to try ourselves, and you know how understaffed we are as a result of Congress. I don't see how I can spare anyone.'

"But finally I sent him Ellis Slack. Later I got a call from Ellis in St. Louis that the judge would be perfectly happy with the way tax cases were being handled if Finnegan resigned.

" 'He'll have to resign right away,' Ellis told me. 'This judge means business. It won't do any good if he resigns next week; it's got to be right away.'

" 'That's out of my bailiwick,' I told Ellis," continued Caudle. " 'Finnegan's in the treasury and I'm in justice.' But I promised to see what I could do.

"So I phoned Bill Boyle (then chairman of the Democratic Committee) and located him in Hollywood, Florida, with Nate Lichtblau. I told him he ought to get Finnegan out right away.

"Then I called Schoeneman (Commissioner of Internal Revenue), and I called Charley Oliphant," Caudle told the committee. "I wasn't able to get John Snyder (Secretary of the Treasury) but I did get Ed Foley (Undersecretary of the Treasury)."

Old Truman Feud

However, nothing happened. Finnegan was not fired. Caudle added that he had heard the White House refused to accept Finnegan's resignation because of an old personal vendetta between President Truman and Judge Moore. The two were old enemies, and apparently the President was not going to let Judge Moore tell him how to run the government.

Later, Caudle told the Chelf Committee, he was called to the office of Senator Williams of Delaware who has been probing tax irregularities. With him went Ellis Slack, Turner Smith, in charge of fraud prosecutions of the Justice Department's tax division, and Drake Watson, U. S. Attorney in St. Louis.

"We walked down the hall to the Senator's office," Caudle testified, "and I 'clare to goodness, I looked over my shoulder and there was Drake Watson about a city block behind us. His knees were wabbling, his face was ashen and his eyes were little black dots sunk in his head. We had to wait outside the Senator's office for him to catch up.

"When we got inside, Senator Williams was very courteous. But sitting beside him was Senator Kem of Missouri, who stood up, pointed his finger at Drake Watson, and took out after him something terrible.

" 'Do you know,' he said, 'That a judge has accused you of not properly conducting your office?'

"Too Kind" — Caudle

"Senator Kem was so rough," continued Caudle, "that I wrote a note and handed it to Senator Williams to please tone Senator Kem down, because Drake Watson was a sick man.

"It was only a short time after that that Drake died," said Caudle, "and I declare I truly believe that incident shortened his life."

Caudle also told how some time later he had looked at the morning paper and read a statement by his chief, Attorney General Howard McGrath, denying that Judge Moore had phoned him complaining about the handling of the St. Louis grand jury.

"When I read that in the paper," Caudle said, "I remarked to my wife 'The Attorney General's made a mistake. He's forgotten. Because Judge Moore did phone him.'

"So I rushed down to the office and up to Howard McGrath's room, but he had just gone out. So I rushed down to the front door and caught him and told him about his mistake.

"Howard thanked me, and said he just had so much on his mind he had forgotten about the Judge's call. So he went right back upstairs, called Judge Moore and said: 'Judge, I want to apologize to you personally, and in a minute I'm going to apologize to you publicly.' "

The Congressmen listed to Caudle at great length. They came to the conclusion that perhaps influence did not count as much with him as the fact that the milk of human kindness ran heavy in Lamar Caudle's heart.

SECOND MAN on the Ticket

By Edwin Lanham

Copyright by Edwin Lanham. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Lucy Strawn, personal secretary of Governor Warburton, nominee for Vice President, has discovered that Clyde McDonald, political foe of the governor, boarded the special campaign train in response to a telegram from Melvin Fisher, mayor of the governor's home town, who has promised "a juicy item" when the candidate stages a rally there.

• • •

VI

BILL EVERS moved his hands uneasily and said: "I don't suppose there was any g-girl trouble—anything like that?"

"Young man, I haven't lived in Hydetown for 30 years," the Governor said, and smiled. "The only girl I had any trouble with was Ruth, and that trouble ended when I married her."

"I don't like it," Bill said. "I don't like it at all. What could it be?"

"There couldn't be anything," the Governor said. "Nothing important, anyhow."

"Can you think of anything unimportant then, Governor?" Bill asked. "It doesn't take much for McDonald to go to work on."

"Not even anything unimportant, Bill."

Bill dropped into a chair. "Frankly, this worries me. You can't think of anything, Governor. But why should the guy send a telegram like that?" He looked up. "Governor, you got any friends in Hydetown?"

"I think so," the Governor said. "Johnny Mills, the present county chairman, was my friend. I know of nothing to change him."

"I'll send him a wire," said Bill.

The Governor sat up straighter. "You'll do nothing of the sort," he said snarply. "You'd only stir up trouble, doing that, when there isn't any trouble to begin with. Just let it ride, Bill."

Bill was on his feet again, walking up and down, shaking his head. "No," he said. "We've got to find out. Governor, I'll take a plane to Hydetown."

"I can't do without you, Bill," the Governor said.

"Somebody has to go," Bill said. "We can't just let it ride." He looked at me, considered, then gave his head a decided shake. "No. Roy's not tough enough for the job."

Lucy Strawn smiled. "Maybe that's why he's just the man to do it," she said.

• • •

I DIDN'T like her characterization of me, nor the cozy tone she used, but before I could protest, her smile widened and she said, "On the surface, that is, Roy. You're actually a stinker underneath." She turned to the Governor. "Don't you think he'd be good?"

The Governor grinned. "Yes, Lucy, I do think so. How about it, Roy? You want to run over to Hydetown and talk to Johnny Mills?"

"But, Governor, how about your speeches." I said. "We've got to get those speeches lined up."

"Roy, before you came along I made quite a few speeches on my own," the Governor said.

"Now, Governor, I didn't mean—"

"I know what you meant, Roy," he said softly. "You've been a tremendous help to me and I'm grateful right down to my bones. But maybe Bill is right. Maybe you can be more help to me in Hydetown right now than here."

"Well, naturally I'll go, Governor," I said. "If that's what you want."

"I wish you would, Roy."

"All right, then," Bill Evers said dubiously. "But, Roy, you've got to play 'em close to your chest. Don't let on why you're there, except to Mr. Mills."

"Of course not," I said.

"Also," the Governor put in, "Roy's our man because he's been to Hydetown. He knows the place."

"Why, I've never been to Hydetown, Governor," I said.

He looked at me. His eyes were tired. "Oh, I thought maybe you went there when you were writing me up, Roy."

"There wasn't time," I said. "It was a rush job, you know, and Bill and I just talked to everyone we could and looked up the newspaper files."

"Oh," said the Governor.

• • •

THE plane set me down at an airport 40 miles from Hydetown at half past four in the morning, as a seeping, orange dawn began to outline the low, regular hills of that Southern country. There was no bus for a couple of hours, but I found a taxi to run me over to Hydetown.

Anyone who has driven from New York to Florida by the inland route has passed through Hydetown, but the odds are that not one in 10,000 stopped there, unless the car had a flat. The highway narrows to the main street of the town, and there are two traffic lights, entering and leaving Hydetown. The buildings along the main street are solid, two-story red brick with flat roofs forming exact planes on opposite sides of the street.

I drove into Hydetown about half past five, and there was not another car parked or moving on the street, not a door opened yet. I carried my bag into the Fisher Arms Hotel.

The lobby was small, and crowded with leather chairs comfortably grouped so that drummers could sit and gaze out huge plate-glass windows at the street. The office was enclosed by a waist-high railing and counter, but the two chairs behind the railing were unoccupied. No one was about.

I put my bag by the window and dropped into one of the big leather chairs. I had not had breakfast, and did not light a cigaret, and I had that gloomy depression that comes on a man who has risen much too early and faces a long and unaccustomed day. I had not been to bed at all, and had slept only a little on the plane.

A truck passed through and dropped off a bundle of newspapers at the drugstore across the street, and a pedestrian or so appeared, off to early jobs.

Donna and David, twins, are four years old and their little brother, Johnnie, is three. With their mother and daddy they were returning to their home after visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Maxwell, in Sedalia.

Along the way they stopped in a restaurant and they were all pretty hungry.

"I want to see the feed book," said Donna reaching for the menu.

"I want some soup," said David.

"So do I," said Donna.

"I don't," said Johnnie, who thought soup sounded a little weak for the way he felt — "I want some sup-per."—H. L.

Usually teen-age youngsters have a continual line of chatter and one little girl in that age group never seems to run down. Recently they were at the dinner table and the girl was talking with her mouth full of food.

"Don't talk with your mouth full", said her father — but the girl had a comeback.

"Well, the food was hot", she said, "And I had my mouth open to cool it off so I thought as long as I had my mouth open I might just as well talk."—H. L.

Children Like School

AKRON, O. (AP) —"Youngsters really want to go back to school but are afraid to admit it."

So says Robert N. Walker, director of child study and guidance in the public schools here. "They like school. Their friends are there. Generally they like their teachers and want to see them again," he said.

This applies to 85 per cent of pupils, he said. His worry is with the other 15 per cent.

Growing Cheer For Big Sales By Christmas

NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever 1953 may bring, a swelling chorus of manufacturers sings of growing cheer between now and Christmas.

That makes the job outlook rosy. And it might even be good news for stockholders — who'll have to share their joy, however, with the tax collector.

Industrial production totals are snapping back fast from the summer slump caused by the steel strike, vacations and abominable weather.

Steel output is almost back to pre-strike levels. Orders for raw steel will keep the mills busy well into next year. Demand for most finished steel products is expected to hold up until the end of the year at least.

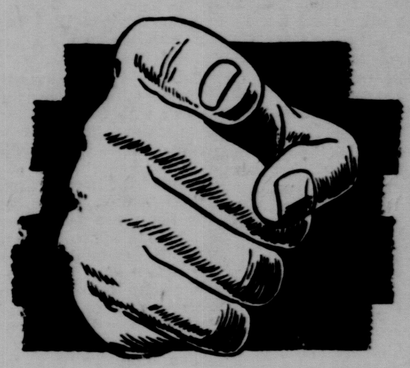

The auto industry expects to have its biggest week of the year next week, when it plans to turn out 98,822 cars and 25,859 trucks.

Although the great post-Korean expansion of industrial plant and equipment is scheduled to slough off next year, builders report that contracts for heavy construction projects are still running ahead of a year ago.

And they look for public construction—schools, roads, hospitals and the like—to step up as the industrial expansion boom tapers off.

Many home builders concede that their construction boom—greatest in history — is past its prime. Home building this year probably will drop below 1,200,000, and the Federal Reserve will be required by law to drop its curbs on easy terms of home mortgages. Many expect the curbs to be dropped later this month.

But many home builders are still confident that for several years to come the demand for homes will keep building totals at better than 800,000 new homes a year.

Because He Goes to Church, He Starts Third Film Career

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — Just because Johnny Downs goes to church every Sunday, he is embarked on his third movie career—an opportunity that rarely comes for actors.

Johnny, who has a wife and four children, and who is handsome and talented, can call on 30 years of show business and movie experience. Yet, despite the fact that he is only 38, he was out of movie work for eight years until recently.

Paramount producer Paul Jones was one of the many to whom Johnny had applied for work during his lay-off but nothing came o it until one Sunday morning. Jones was parked outside St. Charles Church in the San Fernando Valley, waiting for his wife a parishioner.

As the crowd filed out, including Mr. and Mrs. Downs and the four little Downs, Jones suddenly blurted out to Johnny:

"How would you like to be one of my Marines?"

It all makes sense because Jones was then making "Pleasure Is Iceland," a story of three sheltered English girls who live on a South Pacific isle with their planter father. They first meet men when a couple thousand U. S. Marines make a World War II invasion of the isle.

Jones admits that he made the deal on a spur-of-the moment inspiration.

At any rate, Downs went to work in "Pleasure Island" and suddenly found out he had more friends than he realized. Someone at Paramount called Universal - International and Johnny landed another part in "Column South" as a Civil War Cavalryman. Then followed another part in "Stars and Stripes Forever" at 20th Century-Fox.

Next will come a part in "Back to Broadway," a Warner musical. Johnny is basically a song and dance man. Jones, meanwhile, wants him back for Bob Hope's next picture "Girls are Here to Stay," which starts in October.

Old-timers will recall Johnny as a member of the original "Our Gang" comedies back in 1922-25. He and cute Mary Kornman, Fat Boy Joe Cobb and Farina tickled the nation in the old silent days. The old films are getting a revival on television and make present-day kids, including Johnny own, laugh as much as their parents used to do.

Johnny first was a has-been at 13 when he outgrew the "Our Gang" roles. Rather than retire, he and Mary toured in vaudeville as a kid act. The two are still fast friends. When the part "Column South" was offered him, the first question asked was "Can you ride a horse?"

Johnny said yes, then called Mary, now married to a rancher and horse owner. A few days of practice on Mary's ranch and Johnny was ready for any bronco in Hollywood.

In the 30's, Johnny started his second career in Hollywood as the rah-rah freshman in a whole cycle of college pictures. In those days, he was even carrying a football more than Jack Oakie.

Earning $1,500 a week at the peak, Johnny was always billed as the star. One of the movies was called "Pigskin Parade" in which bit roles were played by a lusty kid singer making her movie debut and an extra-shapely blonde. The kid singer was Judy Garland and the blonde was Betty Grable.

"I was the rah! rah! hey! hey! college boy type, a sort of second generation Buddy Rogers. A war was shaping up and producers and the public suddenly wanted its heroes to act and look more like Bogart and Cagney."

With a family to feed, Johnny pulled up his Hollywood stakes and headed East. He was in one Broadway hit called "Are You With It?" But the next one was a flop. Then came a round of summer theaters and occasional TV jobs.

Two years ago he came back here but producers weren't interested. Johnny is the best example of the perennial juvenile. He's 38 but still looks like a UCLA sophomore.

A job on an afternoon TV show came along. It lasted six months.

"I was kind of a glorified disc jockey," says Johnny. "My main job was to stand around until the film broke in the old western movies, which it did every afternoon. Then I went on stage, ad-libbed, sang, danced or made faces until the projectionist got the film fixed."

When that job died, Johnny suggested to one of the executives in the new medium that perhaps 30 years in show business could qualify him for a director's job.

He was told he wasn't the type.

His one ace in the hole was some acreage he had bought in the valley in his heyday when land was cheap. He had enough money left to buy a tractor and a few farm implements.

But then that particular Sunday came and he went to church. Now, an unused tractor can be had at a bargain.

Rosemary Clooney Taking Over for Betty Hutton

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — Rosemary Clooney is taking over around Paramount because of Betty Hutton's surprise departure.

The "Come On—A My House" girl couldn't have come to the studio at a better time. In fact, one Paramount source says that Rosemary's movie debut in "the Stars Are Singing" may have motivated the front office's quick acceptance of Betty's demand that her 12 year contract be broken.

Betty left the studio recently after a wild hassle with the front office over "Topsy and Eva," the screen biography of the famed Duncan sisters. The best information, amid many conflicting reports, had Betty demanding that Charles O'Curran, her new husband, direct the picture.

Ginger Rogers, the other star, reportedly balked at this. Although O'Curran is capable and talented, no feminine star is going to appear in a picture directed by another's husband.

The Clooney girl, meanwhile, has been given Betty's old dressing room, one of the fanciest on the lot. The publicity department has assigned one man exclusively to a Clooney build-up.

Producer Irving Asher admits that he first put Rosemary in "The Stars Are Singing" for little more than a specialty bit to cash in on her recording fame.

"After the first rushes," says Asher, "I realized here was a girl who really comes over on the screen. We re-wrote her part, expanded her into one of the star roles. She can do everything Hutton can and has more heart."

He also indicated she costs somewhat less.

"Every so often," adds Asher, "a studio like this has to re-gear its personnel. Things are too touch now to keep on paying fabulous salaries, carrying stars between pictures. Just the other day, a group of exhibitors told me that there are only two sure boxoffice draws left any more.

The two are Martin and Lewis and John Wayne, according to Asher.

Asher is so sure of the Clooney potential that he showed me rough rushes of the girl's movie debut. The girl comes over surprisingly well for a first timer. She won't replace Betty as a raucous comedienne because there can never be anyone quite like Hutton in that department.

Rosemary's appeal is more akin to that of Doris Day, a sort of vivacious naturalness. Her picture is assured of one solid laugh. One scene has composer Ross Bagdasarian asking Rosemary to run through his song. She does and then hands it back to him with a quip: "It'll never sell a record."

The song, of course, is "Come On-A My House," which sold more than a million.

No. III Tells What Its Like Being Mrs. Flynn

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What's it like to be married to Errol Flynn?

Patrice Wymore, the third Mrs. Flynn, says that she and her adventurous husband get along just dandy. This, despite the almost continuous sniping of the gossipers, who have tried to toll a knell for the latest Flynn marriage ever since it began almost two years ago.

"That's right," panted Patrice between strenuous dance rehearsals for "She's Back on Broadway." "It'll be two years next month. I guess a lot of people didn't think it would last that long.

"But we get along fine. We have a lot of laughs when we're together. And we're together a lot more than people think. Although we've both done a lot of traveling, we've never been apart moire than a week or so. At least we weren't until the picture that Errol's making in England, 'The Sea Rogue.' We'll be separated four months this time, and that's tough to take. But I'll be seeing him soon, either in England or at our other home in Jamaica."

The Kansas-born redhead seems a good match for Flynn. She also is an active individual and appears to have a wanderlust.

"In another year or so, I hoe we can coordinate our travels," she remarked. "By that time, I should be able to work it so I only have to work half a year, and so will Errol. Then we'd like to spend six months in Jamaica and six months here.

"Whatever happens, I want to keep working. I'm a dancer, and I can't stand to be idle for long. After a few weeks of doing nothing, I feel the need to get my body in shape again."

Rattler Eats Rattler

DILLON, Mont. (AP) — A man who hunts rattlesnakes for a hobby says the reptiles have turned cannbal. sStewart Schlafke shot a 30-inch rattler one Sunday and cut off ts rattles. He hiked on a little further and then came back to the same spot where he killed the snake.

This time he saw another rattler puffed up from a big Sunday dinner. He killed that one and inside was the first snake minus the rattles he'd removed.

IN A TRACTOR THIS SIZE

The CA Tractor is actually a new size in the Allis-Chalmers line. Here is a two-plow tractor with all the snap and power you could ask for.

Watch the way it handles its Two-Bottom plow in all kinds of soil. It hustles every job with extra traction and reserve power.

Ten-inch tires on ten-inch rims put more of the tire in contact with the ground — for increased traction. Slower low gear and optional Two-Clutch control give unusual power take-off capacity.

You ought to see this tractor work. Give us a ring and we will let you try it in your fields.

To Save More Corn in all field conditions

...JOHN DEERE No.101 Corn Picker

The wheel- and drawbar-mounted design of the John Deere No. 101 One-Row Corn Picker gives you two tremendous advantages for saving more corn in every field condition. First, with the gatherers up front, you can see the row to guide stalks into the picker and save more corn. Second, the compact, semi-integral design makes the No. 101 quick to respond to a touch of the tractor steering wheel making it easy to follow zig-zag rows.

The John Deere No. 101 Picker has plenty of capacity to handle record-breaking yields. It's ruggedly constructed—built for many years of heavy-duty service. Upkeep costs are extremely low. See us for complete details the next time you're in town.

School Gets Emperor Portrait

TOKYO (AP) — A school in Akita, Northern Japan, recently asked for and received a portrait of Emperor Hirohito, something Japanese schools have not had since the war.

The school placed the imperial photograph in a place of honor in a special alcove. This prompted a writer for Asahi Shimbun to wonder in print if emperor worship was being revived.

Before the war, it was compulsory for schools to have a picture of the emperor in a place of honor. School opened with a bow to the imperial picture. After the war, when the emperor renounced his "divinity," the practice was dropped and the pictures came down.
